WASHINGTON (AP)—Cuba turned on the water Tuesday in pipes leading to Guantanamo, but the U.S. Navy said the base kept its valves closed and accepted no delivery.

Two water ships now are en route to Guantanamo from Norfolk, Va. A third is on its way to Port Everglades, Fla., to pick up water for Guantanamo.

Home, Johnson

Cuba Clash Opens Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson and Prime Minister Douglas-Home opened a two-day exploration of world issues Wednesday and quickly ended up in opposing camps on curtailing trade with Cuba.

Diplomatic informants, reporting this, said Douglas-Home made it clear Britain has no intention of joining the United States in holding down commerce in non-strategic goods with Cuba.

Johnson, the informants said, forcefully restated the U.S. position that the Western Allies must find a formula harmonizing their attitudes toward the Communist world.

The differing stands on Cuba were no surprise and the two heads of government quickly agreed on the need to continue and speed up efforts to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on the central issue of Germany and Berlin, the informants said.

Officially Johnson and Douglas-Home were reported to have dug into the problems of Cyprus, Southeast Asia, Cuba and East-West relations.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, singled out those subjects as among the ones dealt with by the two heads of government, but disclosed no details.

Johnson and the prime minister talked alone about 45 minutes in the president's office and moved to the larger cabinet room for an additional 15 minutes with advisers. Then they went to the Lincoln Memorial where each placed a wreath before the statue of Abraham Lincoln, honoring his 155th birthday.

Douglas-Home flew into snowy Washington Wednesday from Toronto. His wife accompanied him.

Johnson, greeting them at the north portico of the White House, recalled the tradition of meetings between American presidents and British prime ministers that began with Sir Winston Churchill.

"During these years we have had our differences," Johnson said, "but these have passed away... much as two brothers human lives," in defiance of a UN appeal for a cease-fire.

In a cable to UN Secretary-General U Thant, he said the attacks were repulsive "but not without casualties on both sides."

Ethiopia Blames Somalia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie charged Somalia Wednesday with maintaining its attacks on Ethiopian territory, attacking two frontier villages in the last three days.

In a letter to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant, he said the attacks were repulsive "but not without casualties on both sides."

Somalia Blames Ethiopia

MOGADISHU, Somalia (UPI)—Somalia charged Ethiopia Wednesday with continuing border aggression, causing "grave loss of property and human lives," in defiance of a UN appeal for a cease-fire.

In a cable to UN Secretary-General U Thant, the Somali government said Ethiopian fighter planes strafed and bombed Somali border villages Monday and Tuesday.

Death of a Salesman

Split-Level Sex Scandal Simmers

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MINNEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—At the outset a week ago, it looked like little more than a sordid ring of suburban housewives banded together in a loose $300,000-a-year sex-for-sale arrangement.

Today, however, the death of a salesman for the ring has threatened to tear the lid off a full-fledged prostitution scandal in Long Island's split-level society. There were hints that the U.S. national crime syndicate—the so-called Cosa Nostra—might be involved.

The salesman was Edmund Teddy Nugent, 49, a bartender with underworld links in his past. Authorities said as many as 300 Long Island businessmen and politicians were beguiled by discreet over-the-bar hints from Nugent and others of forbidden pleasures available at $25 to $100 a date.

Nugent was found dead Tuesday in a flaming car parked outside the lounge he managed in a Jericho motel. "It was definitely not suicide," said Nassau County district attorney, William Cahn. "We do not know whether it was accidental or homicide, but we do know he was alive and breathing when the fire broke out."

There were no signs of physical violence, but it looks suspicious.

Cahn said Nugent admitted he steered male clients to the ring of call girls, some of whose husbands baby-sat at home while they moonlighted in sinful rendezvous with the other men, known to the call-girl trade as "Johns."

Describing Nugent as a willing source of information, Cahn added:

"He was definitely an integral part of the investigation—a very important figure. He supplied some of the names of 200 businessmen known to have been customers of the women who acted as call girls."

Existence of the ring came to light last week when 14 women were picked up, including Mrs. Conetta McAllister, 35, a thrice-divorced Long Island mother of three. Mont were held as material witnesses, but she was charged with inducing women into prostitution as madam of the ring.

The usual practice in such an investigation is to guarantee

45-Stick Blast Averted

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Four boys walking along a Florida East Coast main line railroad track Wednesday night discovered 45 sticks of dynamite hooked to the track and dismantled the wires just minutes before a freight train passed over.

Criminal agent Lief Larson of the Brevard County sheriff's office reported the dynamite was electrically wired to the track and would have exploded if the engine had touched the wire.

QUICK ACTION
"If the boys had not taken their quick action, somebody might have been killed," he reported.

The train continued on its northward journey, unaware of its close call.

MAIN TRACK
Larson said the dynamite was placed on the main railroad track about five miles north of Titusville and about 1½ miles from where the FEC tracks join with a spur track leading into the Merritt Island launch area of Cape Kennedy where facilities are being built to launch astronauts to the moon.

FREIGHT TRAINS
Cape Kennedy and Merritt Island were picketed earlier this week by railroad pickets protesting movement of the line's freight trains into Merritt Island with construction materials.

Cambodia Approves Neutrality

LONDON (UPI)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has approved a formula proposed by the west for the neutralization of his south-east Asian kingdom, official sources said Wednesday.

Britain, the United States and France were said to have drafted the formula. It calls for Cambodia to declare itself neutral and for other nations to pledge to respect that neutrality.

Canada Displeased

Haiti Expels Jesuits

OTTAWA (CP)—All 18 members of the Canadian Jesuit mission in Haiti have been expelled from the island republic and are en route to Canada, External Affairs Minister announced Wednesday night.

Mr. Martin, who termed the expulsion of the Canadian missionaries "arbitrary," said he instructed the Canadian charge d'affaires in Port au Prince, Charles Bedard, to inform the Haitian government that Canada rejects vague allegations of improper activities against the Jesuit mission.

WORKING FOR HAITIANS
He said Mr. Bedard also was asked to advise the Haitian government that "we are displeased with the decision of the government of Haiti to expel a mission which has been working in the interests of the Haitian people for some years."

Six missionaries, including two arrested earlier, left Haiti Wednesday morning for Miami en route to New York.

IDENTIFIED
They were identified only as Poulin, Hamel, Turcotte, Jean, Desgagnés and Dupuis. It was not known whether all were priests or whether some were religious brothers.

A second group of 12 was scheduled to reach New York later. This group included missionaries identified as Gremier, Bourassa, Hardy, Gerard Goulet, Louis-Joseph Goulet, Charles, Lachance, Sabourin, Roy, Clothier, Laramée and Ross.

TWO ARRESTED
The latter two were Rev. Paul Laramée and Brother François-Xavier Ross who were arrested Jan. 31 on arrival in Haiti after a visit to the religious order's Montreal headquarters.

The expulsion was the second mass expulsion of missionaries on orders of the Haitian government in recent years. About two years ago a number of French priests and a bishop were ordered to leave the country.

Freed Man Still In B.C.

By TERRY HAMMOND

Government officials refused yesterday to disclose the whereabouts of Charles Heathman, who was released from Escondido Tuesday.

Attorney-General Bonner said he believed the man, twice condemned and later acquitted of murder, was still in B.C.

Officials said they feared undue publicity would ruin the probation program worked out for him.

Heathman had been sentenced to hang for the murder of Vernon newsboy Donald Otley, 10, but was later freed by the B.C. appeal court. Later he confessed to a Vancouver newspaper, and still later he repudiated the confession.

Heathman has been given a conditional release into the custody of a sponsor. Name of the sponsor is not known.

Officials said local police in the area where Heathman is living have been notified.

Mr. Bonner said he has no jurisdiction over the case. It was in the hands of mental health authorities.

Health Minister Martin, who administers mental hospitals, claimed he didn't know Heathman had been released.

"Is he out?" Mr. Martin asked a reporter who pressed him for details. "Nice of you to inform us."

Mr. Bonner said RCMP have advised him a recent claim by Heathman that he knows the identity of the real killer was unfounded.

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Field mice were blamed Wednesday for delaying 14 passenger trains, including four fast expresses, on Japan's busy Tokaido Railway Line. Officials found that mice had gnawed a signal cable. The damaged cable, soaked with rain, caused a short circuit.

$3,500,000 Park On Gorge Road Starts in Summer

A $3,500,000 amusement park will be built on Gorge Road, a director of Sherwood Forest Playlands Ltd. said yesterday.

"Building will commence this summer," said Cuyler Shanks of the Victoria-registered company.

"We started out with six acres, then planned for 16. Now we will be using 23 acres. Our architects in Hollywood are having a hard time keeping up with the expansion."

DISNEYLAND

Hugh Martin of Marwell Construction said earlier "some of our architects helped design Disneyland."

He outlined various aspects of the project which was first proposed three years ago as an old English village on property next to the Redwood Park Hotel on Gorge Road.

"The scope is being greatly enlarged," he said.

VIKING LONGBOATS

In addition to amusement rides, a children's pet park, a large banquet hall and souvenir shops, replicas of Viking longboats would ferry tourists from the Inner Harbor to the playland.

Mr. Shanks said a farmer's market and a marina were also in the plans.

"We hope to make it a sportsman's mecca," he said, "where they can park their boats, buy fishing and hunting licences, rent jeeps and take off for their fishing and hunting."

AND CANNING

"We may even have facilities for smoking and canning their fish."

Mr. Martin said the company expected to start construction in three or four months.

"We have about 80 per cent of the land assembled now," he said. "We expect to reveal in full our development plans to city council in the next 10 days or so."

"We fully expect to be in operation for the summer of 1965," Mr. Martin said. "It will be, on a smaller scale, as big a tourist-pulling attraction as Disneyland."

New elementary schools will be built at Bradley Dyne and Sayward Road.

Four-room annexes are to be built at North Saanich and Mount Newton secondary schools, and new rooms added at Claremont secondary, four; Saanich elementary, two; Prospect Lake, three; Sidney elementary, one; Royal Oak secondary, three.

B.C.'s New Bank Really Different

ALAN MACFARLANE
... 25 per cent of what?

Blind, Deaf, Crazy To Vote Bank Money

The new bank?

Who in his right mind would buy 25 per cent of any business without first asking how much money he has to invest and who his business partners will be? Oak Bay MLA Alan MacFarlane wants to know.

Speaking during the budget speech debate in the legislature yesterday, the Liberal MLA attacked that part of the budget speech which says the government plans to purchase "up to 25 per cent of the paid-up share capital of a chartered bank."

The question, Mr. Speaker, is: How many dollars of the people's money is required to purchase 25 per cent of something?

Does the government intend to spend $2,500,000 of the people's money, or $50,000,000 of the people's money? The Liberal member wanted to know.

He told the House that if anyone approached him personally to invest in 25 per cent of a business without letting him know how much he would have to spend or with whom he would be doing business, "and if I agreed to such a thing, they would trundle me off, out the door into a white jacket and to some institution."

"The fact is, we are not being asked to vote, at all."

UNKNOWN SUM

"We are being asked to vote an unknown sum to a bank with unknown capital assets, to be run by unknown directors, in partnership with unknown financiers," Mr. MacFarlane said.

"If members of this House were blind, deaf, dumb and out of our minds, they might be excused for voting away the people's money."

"I say, as trustees of the public purse we can do no such thing."

NO RESPECT

"If the premier thinks that all the members of this House are going to play dead while he walks out of here with a blank cheque in his hand, he has finally illustrated beyond any shadow of a doubt he has no respect for our democratic institutions, no respect for our legislature, no respect for the native intelligence of our citizens and no greater desire than to rule this province without question and without responsibility," charged the Liberal member.

"Blind man's bluff—that's the game we are being asked to play... Now, Mr. Speaker, I hope I have made my point quite clear."

male customers anonymity in return for their co-operation. However, Mrs. McAllister's lawyer, John J. Sutter, declared: "I intend to rip the shroud of anonymity from these people. Any man who pays a girl for her services is just as guilty as she is, as far as I'm concerned. And politicians or not, I intend to expose these Johns to the public eye."

Long Island to many non-residents is a fabulous cluster of vast estates, a verdant playground for the wealthy families. It is that in part. But it is also the domain of the modest split-level or ranch-type home, row upon duplicate row of which are inhabited by middle-income families.

From this strata of island society, the call-girl drew housewives and mothers away from their built-in wall ovens and outdoor barbecue pits to neon-lit lounges and restaurants in the area of Roosevelt Raceway, citadel of harness racing.

The call girls questioned thus far all had been married, although only five still lived with their husbands. In at least three cases, Cahn said, the husbands knowingly and placidly stayed home while the wives made their after-dark rounds.

Some of the women were quoted as admitting their role in the vice ring, with the explanation that they were trying to help out financially at home.

Your Good Health

Everybody Has an Allergy No Two of Them Are Alike

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Any information concerning allergies from dust and pollen would be greatly appreciated.—M.R.B.

That's a big order. It is estimated that 75 per cent of us have at least minor allergies, and 25 per cent have strong ones, and no two of them are necessarily alike. However, maybe I can give you some help.

An allergy is a hypersensitivity to something or other which ordinarily is harmless. The symptoms can be a running nose, chronic drainage in the throat, hives, itch, inflamed eyes, sneezes, digestive upsets and a host of other common complaints.

CAREFUL HISTORY

Pairing the hypersensitivity with the symptom isn't always easy. A careful history of the case is essential. Pollen allergy is usually easier to spot because of its seasonal nature, but remember that two or three different types may overlap. A dozen or so pollens, at least, are frequently involved in "hay fever." It isn't just a single ragweed.

Dust sensitivities may be harder to identify, and involve many things other than "dirt." Molds, yeast, pollen, animal danders, feathers, fabrics—quite a list.

We may sneeze from the irritation if a cloud of dust blows in our faces. The allergic person doesn't need a cloud of it. Watch the particles in the air where a sunbeam falls.

USUALLY IDENTIFY

What can be done? Medical history—and skin tests will usually identify at least some of the offending types of dust and, if the symptoms warrant, desensitization by injections may be utilized.

Allergies tend to add together. If you are sensitive to several things, you may have symptoms if ALL affect you at once, but you may escape if you encounter them singly. Or encounter them in small enough concentrations.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is the direct sodium sulfonate that you mentioned in your columns available without a prescription?—MRS. A.C.

Yes, the D-6-S is available in drug stores without a prescription. It is sold under a dozen or so trade names, but any up-to-date druggist can help you select one.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 18 and quite frequently get a bloody nose. I will just be sitting there and it will start to bleed. Sometimes I wake up in the morning and find blood on the pillow. I have had my nose broken three times but don't think this is the cause.—D.B.

At your age I doubt that high blood pressure is involved. That leaves us with two or three principal possibilities. Some people cause nose bleeds by picking their noses—even unconsciously while they are asleep. If we can pass that by, it leaves enlarged superficial blood vessels that rupture at the slightest irritation or a small ulcerated spot which bleeds periodically. This is the most likely answer in a case like yours, and it is readily corrected by simple cauterization, which your doctor can do in his office.

Swiss Give Reds Sour-Grapes Reply

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union charged Wednesday that the 36-year-old Russian, identified as an officer of the top Soviet security agency called KGB, had requested political asylum in the United States. He disappeared from sight here eight days ago.

(An authoritative Swiss source in Bern told Reuters news agency the Swiss believe Nosenko is already in the U.S.)

Soviet chief delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said Nosenko's defection could be blamed on the "provocative activity" of Western intelligence agencies and constituted a violation of Swiss sovereignty.

In a statement read to reporters, Tsarapkin called on the Swiss government to demand that Nosenko be returned to Geneva and handed over to the Soviet delegation.

Fight Rages On Cyprus During Talks

NICOSIA (UPI)—The United States and Britain conducted apparently futile negotiations on a Cyprus peace formula with President Makarios here Wednesday while bitter day-long fighting raged in the southern part of Limassol between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Cyprus Radio last night said at least 20 Turkish Cypriots and one Greek Cypriot were killed in the fighting in the key coastal city.

A government spokesman said Turkish Cypriots manning machineguns in two minarets in the southern port town fired on the Greek quarter hitting a government hospital. Earlier in the day, Greek and Turkish Cypriots fought a see-saw battle for possession of a fortress castle overlooking Limassol harbor.

The violence in Limassol endangered the urgent Anglo-American peace negotiations being carried on.

Hostess Testifies:

Sinatra Suspects Somewhere Else

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pretty Nevada hostess testified Wednesday that two of the three men accused of kidnapping Frank Sinatra Jr. were in the Lake Tahoe area about the time of the alleged abduction last Dec. 8.

So lengthy was the testimony of Vero Petrinovich that the government's star witness, Sinatra, 39, was not called.

The government says the singing son of the famed movie and recording star was kidnapped at gunpoint by Barry W. Keenan, 35, and Joseph Amadio, 33. A third defendant, John Irwin, 42, the government alleges, later took part in the kidnapping and ransom demand for $200,000.

Miss Petrinovich is hostess in the coffee shop at Harvey's Resort Lodge, Stateline, Nev., directly across the street from Harrah's Club, site of the alleged abduction.

The dark-eyed brunette said she recalled seeing Amadio and Keenan three times in the coffee shop.

Asked whether she had ever seen Frank Sinatra, Jr., in the coffee shop, the witness replied: "Quite frequently."

She was asked if she had ever seen Sinatra with the defendants. Her answer was "never."

Hoffa Trial

Unionist Called Traitor

Tommies Must Go Africans Decide

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—James Hoffa's lawyers ended their 4½-day questioning of a Baton Rouge, La., Teamsters union official Wednesday.

After calling him a liar and a traitor, defence lawyers accused Edward G. Partin, business manager of Baton Rouge Teamsters Local 5.

Partin, who linked Hoffa to alleged efforts to rig the international Teamsters president's 1962 conspiracy trial jury in Nashville, was the government's chief witness. He began his testimony Feb. 4.

Hoffa and five others are on trial on charges of trying to influence the 1962 jury, which was unable to reach a verdict. No sooner was Partin excused than the defence subpoenaed him without explanation to testify on Hoffa's side.

Then the defence lawyers complained to U.S. District Judge Frank Wilson that the president of Partin's local refused to turn local union records over to them.

Spain Eases Church Law

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Spanish Roman Catholic leaders have approved, after long delay, a draft of a new law liberalizing Protestantism in the country, reliable Roman Catholic sources reported Wednesday.

Metropolitans of the Catholic church have been meeting behind closed doors here since Monday.

DAR es SALAAM (CP)—The Organization of African Unity conference agreed in principle Wednesday night to replace with an African force British troops called into Tanganyika to put down an army mutiny.

Ookpik Goes Commercial

OTTAWA (UPI)—Ookpik, Canada's wide-eyed owl with the flat feet, is going commercial.

The unique seal-skin doll, produced by Eskimos at Fort Chimo, Que., on the shores of Ungava Bay, will soon be produced by a commercial toy-maker.

The northern affairs department and an Ottawa legal firm are at present working out a contract with a commercial manufacturer to mass-produce Ookpik. The agreement will allow the toy-maker to turn out imitation ookpiks on a licensed basis, paying a royalty to the Eskimo co-op for every owl they produce.

A nation-wide publicity campaign is planned to be launched March 4 to announce the mass production of the friendly bird. Ookpik kept into prominence when he visited the Philadelphia trade fair last February. American customers rushed to the Canadian exhibit to place orders for the photogenic owl. Demand quickly outstripped supply. The trade department estimates that they have a backlog of from 10,000-20,000 orders, and say that it would take from four to six months to fulfill present commitments.

It was reported that a Philadelphia department store chain placed an order for 10,000 ookpiks alone.

Northern affairs officials, who handle the merchandising and retailing Ookpik for the Eskimo Co-operative at Fort Chimo, were stunned by the demand. Trade and commerce officials, realizing the limited supply of the seal-skin owl, placed what they considered a "prohibitive" price tag of $10 on the Philadelphia-bound Canadian "ambassador." The price, however, failed to daunt U.S. buyers, and the price has now risen to $20 for some models.

Who Is He?

Mr. X Sits on a Shelf —A Box of Dried Bones

LILLOOET (CP)—Someone, somewhere, knows the identity of Mr. X—a box of dried bones on a shelf in the RCMP detachment in the Cariboo community.

Police have appealed to the public in seeking the name of the man whose dissected body was found 15 miles north of here 11 months ago by two Indian cowboys.

Laboratory tests on the remains showed the man in life suffered a unique back injury and that he was murdered about two years ago.

KEPT OPEN

Police files—kept open in hope someone will come forward with a clue—tell this grisly tale:

The killer stripped the victim of clothes, identification and personal belongings. The murderer then laboriously ripped his victim to pieces, stuffing the remains in potato sacks.

The bizarre killing came to police attention last March 25 after Louis and Robert Joe, found a sack containing two arms.

TWO MORE

RCMP found two more, one containing a torso, the other thighs. Police surmised a fourth sack contained a head and the lower legs, but it was never found.

The massive machinery of the RCMP rolled into action. The FBI was called in. Missing persons reports were tracked down.

Partial fingerprints were obtained from the remains, but a check of records proved fruitless.

WHITE MAN

Tests showed the man weighed about 177 pounds at death, stood about five-foot-10-inches, and was a white man in his late 40s of heavy build and with reddish-brown hair.

The middle finger of his left hand was amputated but more

A Needed Answer

IT IS DIFFICULT to believe that the British request for 1,000 Canadian troops to help police Cyprus came as the surprise to Ottawa that external affairs officials would have us think.

According to British newspapers, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home made it quite clear before leaving London for his North American visit that Canada had already indicated that it was prepared to offer the services of 1,000 men for the job.

This statement, of course, hardly jibed with the verbal assurances given by the Canadian external affairs department over the past week that no specific requests for a Canadian contribution to the Cyprus peace-force had been received.

Even following the Monday talks between Mr. Paul Martin and British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler the Canadian minister seemed reluctant to admit that such a proposal had been made. Meeting with reporters after the 90-minute conference, the external affairs minister cautiously said that he couldn't be "specific" about matters which had been discussed.

Mr. Butler, who was standing by and obviously unaware of Mr. Martin's inexplicable desire for secrecy over the matter, popped out with: "We'd like about 1,000 Canadians . . ."

Mr. Martin, according to witnesses, appeared to be taken aback by Mr. Butler's statement.

On Tuesday, British government spokesmen in New York reported that Canada along with The Netherlands, Belgium and Norway had all agreed to join with Britain and the United States in setting up an international peace-keeping force for Cyprus.

And though this information might well have clarified the situation for the rest of the world, it apparently only went to compound confusion in Ottawa. Hot on the heels of the British announcement, the external affairs department stated that "sympathetic consideration" was given the plan by the government, but a final decision had not yet been reached.

It will be no less difficult for Canadians themselves than it is for their Western allies to understand why Ottawa should be so anxious at this time to keep proposals for Canadian participation in the Cyprus peace-force under wraps.

For long the world at large has heard successive Canadian governments pledge active support for any international move designed to maintain peace. Already Canadian servicemen are serving this cause in the Middle East, The Congo and Southeast Asia.

Why, then, should Ottawa hesitate over its decision on Cyprus? Either it is prepared to participate in the proposed international force or it is not. Both the Canadian people and Canada's allies now deserve a straightforward answer as to which it will be.

Appealing Plan

THE APPROACH decided on by the intermunicipal committee toward the problem of securing parkland on the Saanich Peninsula before it is lost to private development is one that should appeal to the provincial government and the people of the Greater Victoria region alike as eminently sensible. Reeve Cox of Oak Bay is to be commended for suggesting it.

The urgency of acquiring beach access, scenic "green spaces" and potential recreational grounds which are fast becoming unavailable for public enjoyment seems to be almost universally acknowledged. So does the need for the community as a whole to act in unison to preserve these amenities for the common good. The comparatively few residents of the central and northern peninsula cannot be expected to make the necessary outlays alone.

But as Reeve Cox notes, the half-million Greater Victoria annual tax levy for parkland acquisition proposed by Mr. Hugh Stephen in his special report for the Chamber of Commerce, even if this revenue were supplemented in fair proportion by the province, would probably not provide money quickly enough to avert the loss of many or most of the desired sites.

The tax would be sufficient however to repay the provincial government over a period of years for an advance of the necessary funds, and it would be difficult to fault this proposition as unreasonable. It would not call upon the province to play Santa Claus to the municipalities concerned—only to help them help themselves.

Obviously the regional parks acquired under this system would have to be administered by a joint board with representation from all the municipalities and the province. Perhaps the Capital Region Planning Board with extended powers could fill this role to advantage, or the Capital Improvement District Commission, in which case it would not be necessary to add to the number of bodies with metropolitan jurisdiction.

But detail can wait, and meantime the Bennett administration's interest in a beautiful capital and the co-operative spirit evidenced by members of the intermunicipal committee in advancing this proposal should dictate quick agreement on the broad principle of securing the needed lands now with government assistance and paying for them as the money becomes available.

Budgeting

LIBERAL Leader Perrault accuses the Bennett regime of presenting too gloomy a picture by deliberately under-estimating its revenues while taking an opposite course with its expenditures. In the result a nice handy surplus eventuates, which in Mr. Perrault's view means that some government services have been held back to show a budgetary profit, or that taxation is too heavy.

Doubtless there will be some validity to his criticism. Some portion of this budgetary technique however must be ascribed to a good husbandry desire not to spend more than is earned.

Excepting only when there is the dire necessity of officially budgeting for a deficit, governments normally play it cannily to show a surplus. As a finance minister Mr. Bennett is by no means alone in this respect.

In the heyday of a former Liberal administration at Ottawa, for example, Mr. Abbott ran up annual surpluses amounting to hundreds of millions for several years on end, which suggests in vastly larger measure the techniques with which Mr. Perrault finds fault.

There may well be a feeling among the taxpayers who in the end provide these surpluses that it is more prudent to budget for a surplus than the opposite. The likelihood is that Mr. Perrault would take an equally dim view of provincial financing had last week's budget openly catered for a deficit.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT was Churchill, I think, who coined the term "tripbition" for a serviceman who might operate on land, sea and in the air.

There is speculation in Ottawa that Canada may be the first to introduce this multiple warrior. A forecast of the defence minister's plans suggests the likelihood of service integration to a degree nothing short of revolutionary, coming into force in three stages.

First, a single overall C-in-C would be named; secondly, supply, pay and police units of the separate services would be combined; and thirdly, three uniforms would merge into one.

The tripbition would come into being.

Ostensibly, presumably, but apart from the uniform not actually. A recruit could hardly be trained to be a sailor, a soldier and an airman all rolled into one. And there would still have to be army, navy and air force branches, call them what you will.

But one uniform! This would tear history apart and break military hearts. If it happens, just wait and see.

It is said that both Britain and the U.S.A., equally bent on cutting defence costs, would like Canada to make the tripbition experiment to see how it works out.

In other words, Canada would be the guinea-pig.

Evangelist Billy Graham is quoted as saying, apropos the Beatles, that he functions on a different wave length.

So do many others, including editorial opinion across the line. Much of the latter takes a dim view of the invasion by the Beatles of the American halls of entertainment.

In decided contrast to the youthful rapture of the teenagers, of course, who don't think in political terms but in the persuasive gyrations of mop-headed rock-rollers.

A Milwaukee Journal bemoans that "Fortress America has been breached. The Beatles—unkempt, untalented, lunatic noisemakers—are inside our gates."

And further, "the blindest thing we can say about their homeland is that here is the final crushing evidence that the sun has finally set on the British Empire."

Unwittingly, perhaps, the Washington Post hits the nail more properly on the head when it says "The British are taking Swedish revenge for the rock 'n' roll the U.S. has exported to Britain over the past few years."

That's where it all began, you see—in America. The Beatles are returning it for lat, or, in other parlance, paying their U.S. compere the compliment of imitation.

Perhaps it was across the line the sun began to set, when rock 'n' roll was invented.

Uneasy lies the head, they say of kings. It could be added of their daughters, too.

I suppose most girls wouldn't mind being a princess, the continuing allure of supreme social ascendancy. But as has been evident recently in the Netherlands, to be a princess is not all honey and platinum.

In that realm to which girls aspire, matrimony, it can have its drawbacks.

The days are over when princesses were matched without their leave, often to a future of discontent, but as a corollary the eligibles have diminished. And the state still intrudes to prevent complete freedom of the heart.

Politics, the constitution, religion, still remain as stumbling blocks to romance.

As was the case with an English princess not too long ago a Dutch princess has run foul of the established order, and forced to make a grievous choice.

A princess may pick her man notwithstanding, but she may not have it both ways. Running contrary to state decree, she may have to give up her royal rights or give up her beloved.

Perhaps the girl of lesser realms has the best of it, even if in her dreams she envisages a prince charming, or rather a charming prince.

The Canadian House of Commons passed a bill, over Liberal opposition, 51 years ago today—in 1913—to contribute to the reconstruction of Britain's navy. The Liberal-controlled Senate withheld approval pending reference to the people.

South Africa Fears

By Mr. Kenneth Kaunda

A prime minister of the new African state of Zambia (Northern Rhodesia), had offered to send a force of saboteurs to South Africa, he could not have created a bigger stir than he has done by offering to exchange ambassadors.

The Verwoerd government is scarcely able to conceal its embarrassment and irritation. It has snapped back that the offer cannot be regarded as official because Zambia is not independent yet, and diplomatic relations can be established only between independent states.

Mr. Kaunda is aware of this, and presumably intends repeating the offer when Zambia becomes independent in a year or so. He says he has made the gesture because he finds himself so "completely obsessed with the tremendous problem of South Africa" and the terrible consequences which could arise from it throughout Africa.

Sanctions, saboteurs, training of soldiers to fight against the Verwoerd regime, had all been suggested, declared Mr. Kaunda, and perhaps it was the moment for a new approach, for sympathy and understanding. Zambia would make these overtures, and only if they were rejected would the country join in the economic sanctions against South Africa.

But Mr. Kaunda's suggestion has angered, rather than appeased South African leaders. They clearly suspect that he is engaged in a Trojan horse into the country in the shape of a black diplomat. They fear a subtle assault on the country's color barriers.

The current flutter in the political dovecotes has focused attention again on the fact that South Africa has no diplomatic relations with a single African, Asian or non-white country. The diplomatic corps in South Africa is all-white. South Africa's representation in Africa is confined to a consul-general in Angola and another in Mozambique (both Portuguese colonies) and a diplomatic representative in Southern Rhodesia. Recently it was forced to close its consulates in Elisabethville, Leopoldville and Ndabandwe and withdrew its minister from Cairo.

There are South African consulates in Hong Kong and Tokyo, but Japan has refused to exchange ambassadors with South Africa. Japan's refusal came as a shock because initially it had agreed to the exchange.

Why would a Japanese ambassador be more acceptable than an African ambassador? The answer is that the Japanese are lighter skinned and they are such a small community in South Africa (no more than a few dozen) that the Verwoerd government has been able to accord them officially "white" status. When the Japanese were elevated to this status—shortly before the proposed exchange of ambassadors—political cartoonists had a field day on the subject of the new "honorary white men."

It is also disclosed that, just over a year ago, cabinet approval was obtained for the exchange of diplomatic representatives with Madagascar (the former French colony of the southeast coast of Africa). The invitation was declined by Madagascar. South Africa, however, has made no move to establish diplomatic relations with any of the newly-independent black states. The arrival of a black diplomat in Pretoria, with his black staff, could give rise to a series of embarrassing incidents. Certain laws would have to be waived to enable an African diplomat to reside in a white area of Pretoria, the capital. This could be done without difficulty, but it would not be sufficient to protect him from frequent indignities.

For example, there would be no adequate way of ensuring that an African ambassador was not stopped by a white constable and asked to produce his "pass"—which every African male and female in the country must carry. The diplomat would have to establish his identity, but the damage would have been done. One newspaper suggested that this kind of situation could be avoided if the chief of protocol were to walk in front of the diplomat wherever he went waving a white flag.

There would certainly be no way of ensuring that African diplomats were not humiliated if they arrived unheralded at cinemas, restaurants, hotels, swimming baths, etc. The arrangements of these places reserve the right of admission.

Apart from "incidents," what would the effect be on the social color bar? If one African diplomat and his staff were to be accredited, why not others from all the independent African and Asian states? And if they were exempted from the race laws, by what right would leading local Africans—professional and businessmen and others—not be exempted?

The question which the government will have to answer is—where to stop? Policemen are fully aware of the perils of admitting even a single black diplomat. They have warned persistently, in the past 15 years of Nationalist rule, that if the color bar is relaxed in any field, even in a limited and controlled way, the white man ultimately is doomed.

For this reason, they interpret Mr. Kaunda's offer as a threat. From the diplomatic mission which his ambassador would establish in Pretoria, they foresee a force of guerrilla fighters emerging—trained not to use guns and explosives, but to undermine, at public banquets and at social gatherings, the whole structure of the color bar on which apartheid rule is founded.

Far-Reaching Effects

By HOWARD GREEN

Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

NO doubt in many capitals of the world—on both sides of the Iron Curtain—there is puzzlement over the friendship which appears to be springing up between France and Communist China. Obviously, each nation believes its own interests will be served by this development. Probably neither is very much concerned whether there is approval or disapproval from other countries. Yet the change is bound to have far-reaching effects in all parts of the world.

It is particularly difficult to analyze the motives of Communist China. Her leaders have an outlook so different from our own that few westerners have any idea at all of what is going on in the minds of the men in authority in Peking.

However, one can be sure that a high value is placed on obtaining such an important friend as France. Communist China has been almost isolated for many years; this new relationship gives promise of opening the door for much greater participation by her in world affairs.

In addition it will reduce her dependence on the Soviet Union and possibly enable her to put pressure on the Russians for more assistance than has been forthcoming from that source recently.

Also there is no doubt that China is trying hard to increase her influence and gain friends in Africa and Latin America, as well as in the countries of the Communist bloc. Having a friendly France will strengthen her hand in this attempt.

It is also significant that the two nations plan to increase trade with each other; this will improve China's economic position which has been one of her main problems.

We do have a much better understanding of French motives in making this move and probably there was little excuse for surprise on the part of France's friends in the western world. Throughout this term as presdent of France, General de Gaulle has consistently done everything in his power to restore the grandeur of France and to make his nation a world leader. He has already gone a long way toward reaching this objective and in the process has some magnificent achievements to his credit.

What was more natural than that he should try to rebuild French prestige in the Far East and in the process possibly find a way to be the first western leader with influence in Peking?

Also we should remember that he has refused time and again to accept domination by the United States, the Soviet Union, the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization or any other nation or group of nations. This policy has on occasion given France's allies considerable concern and it has not been popular with them.

However, it has succeeded fairly well and probably President de Gaulle believes that this new friendship with China will strengthen rather than weaken his hand in future dealings with his allies and with the United Nations.

Then, too, the French may have been attracted to China by the fact that these two countries alone have refused to adhere to the nuclear test ban treaty and intend to conduct tests in the face of adverse world opinion.

Or they may even see the move as an opportunity to reduce tension in the world by giving China a reason for changing her recent belligerent attitude; such a result obviously would be of benefit to all countries. In any event, the French claim that their new friendship is a realistic approach to actual world conditions.

Time alone will tell what the motives are on each side and in the meantime we can expect to see results of one kind and another flowing from the action taken.

One result could be to bring about a new grouping of nations with the United States and the Soviet Union on closer terms than at present; another could be to strengthen China greatly and help her become the leader of a large group of unaligned countries in Asia and Africa; and another to disturb and confuse the nations in the Western Alliance.

Perhaps the change is not that significant—who knows? It has certainly added interest to world affairs and given Canadians one more reason for paying careful attention to what is going on around the globe.

As citizens of one of the 10 or 12 leading nations of the world today this is very much our business. But more on that thought in a subsequent article!

Tight Budget

By RICHARD JACKSON

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THE federal civil service, employing more than 160,000 people—if you count the Crown corporations such as the CBC and the CNR, the total exceeds 300,000—operates by far the nation's biggest payroll.

Perhaps the largest single group in that small army of 160,000 civil servants comprises the several thousand girls impersonally classified under the heading of clerks, typists, stenographers, secretaries, Grade 1.

These are the recruits, the fresh of public service, emerging from Grades 12 and 13 of Collegiate or from business college to join the government, with perhaps the largest contingent coming here to the headquarters offices of the 53 departments, boards, bureaus and assorted federal agencies in the capital.

One of them could be you, next June. Or perhaps your daughter.

How, then, does she do in this career that attracts more girls than any other employment opportunity in the country?

Well, in round figures, if she has Grade 12, she draws an initial $2,600 a year. If she has Grade 13, she starts at $2,700. Two years of previous office experience gets her $2,800 and three years starts her off at $2,940.

Strike the average, then, at $2,800.

So much for income . . . what about outgo?

How do you or your daughter live?

How far, and in what way, does that $2,800 stretch?

A survey by a labor statistical and research agency has provided the calculations that offer something of a knowledgeable guide.

The average civil service girl clerk, stenographer, typist in the starting Grade 1 is between 19 and 23 and has no dependents.

She enjoys good health, resides and works in the same urban transportation zone and shares a three-room furnished apartment with another girl, paying half the rent, utilities and household expenses.

She buys for cash, except for the television set that she and her apartment mate are paying out on the instalment plan.

For food and lodging—let's name her Sally—the Grade 1 needs $1,121 a year. The food budget represents half the cost of meals prepared in the apartment by the two girls, plus the cost of lunches in restaurants or cafeterias five days a week.

Sally spends $283 a year for clothing—if she makes her coats and shoes last two years, sweaters and blouses three, her swim suit, umbrella, raincoat and casual jacket four years.

For medical, dental and optical care she spends an annual $200. An identical sum goes for insurance and savings for emergencies.

For recreation, education and reading materials the allotment is $266. Transportation runs $175 and miscellaneous items such as candy, soft drinks, fruit, gifts, church and charity donations, stationery, stamps and phone calls, $85.

The annual budget provides $56 for personal care—toothpaste, shampoo, lipstick, face powder, hand lotion, cleansing cream, deodorant, soap, facial tissues, manicure supplies, two permanent waves and four haircuts.

The recreation figure, $266, provides a seven-day vacation (she gets three weeks but spends two at home, her own or her parents) including transportation and what is described as accommodation in an inexpensive nearby resort (there are such things, even yet, in this section of the country) or municipal or provincial camps.

It also allows $18 for repair of the television set, and takes in eight movies, 15 games of bowling including shoe rental, six trips to a nearby beach, a newspaper subscription, and 30 cents a week for books and magazines.

That takes care of a total $2,386.

Sally's income tax bill, with standard deductions—$1,000 for unmarried status and $100 for charity and medical costs—runs $259, with the federal government taking $224 of it and the province getting $35. That leaves $155 to cover federal superannuation contributions, payment on unemployment insurance, dues for civil service recreation and other office associations, membership in one of the federal government staff organizations—and for a bit of luxurious splurging, if anything remains.

So, a government working girl CAN get along on an annual $2,800—if she watches her pennies and budgets carefully, as she later must if and when she marries—but it makes, of financial necessity, some pretty wholesome, if unexciting living.

But, of course, if she sticks it out, there are salary increases and the prospect of a good and rewarding few years as a government career girl.

Buoyant Chou Worries His African Hosts

By ANTHONY KAMPSON
from Nairobi, Kenya

"Revolutionary prospects are excellent throughout the African continent," said Chou En-Lai at the end of his Africa tour last week. He said it as casually as a company chairman discussing next year's profits.

When asked what he meant by revolution, Red China's premier explained reassuringly that he meant economic development and overthrowing outside forces. But the remark has made a large impact on Africa, and his hosts and would-be hosts in the independent African states must be wondering anxiously: revolution against whom?

The Chinese presence in Africa is understandably creepy. Her diplomats move quietly into isolated embassies with big red flags and tasseled lanterns and reply to western inquiries with embarrassed giggles.

They shun encounters with the West and, unlike the newer Russians, regard all contact as corrupting or compromising. They secretly pay money to African politicians who give mysterious favors in return. The power transmitter of Peking Radio beams Marxist lectures and intimidating statistics all over Africa.

The conjunction of inscrutable China with unpredictable Africa provides a festival for witch-hunters and plot-mongers; and Zanzibar was their heyday.

How much real danger lies behind all this? It is hard to disentangle the African muddle from Chinese plotting. And undoubtedly in the past month there have been preposterous exaggerations in Washington and London.

No effective evidence has been offered to show that the East African mutinies were more than schemes from outside, that Zanzibar's "Field Marshal" and China are extremely remote from each other. Chou En-Lai in his tour has made much of the medieval contacts between the two continents. He has raked up a Moroccan visitor to ancient China, and a Chinese navigator in Somalia, and he likes to suggest that natural contacts of this kind were temporarily interrupted by colonialism.

BACKGROUND

But the fact is that China and Africa have few natural points of contact, and the difficulties of communication are immense. The Chinese ambassador in Tanganyika, Ho Ying, is believed to speak neither English nor Swahili, and the Chinese correspondents are clearly very capable of getting hold of the wrong end of the wrong stick.

It is never easy to know whether Chinese inscrutability is due to discretion or to ignorance. Certainly this Chinese remoteness is not a diplomatic asset, and the summoning of British troops is one sign that the present African governments prefer the devil they know to the devil they do not.

John Okello was trained in Cuba, or even that he used any arms from abroad.

There is not much gain in saying that the non-whiteness of the Chinese gives them much diplomatic advantage. In conversation they say "we black brothers," but it is not their race but their common experience of humiliation and poverty that is the bond.

Africans are absolutely determined to work out their own kind of socialist society. Whether it will be Nkrumahism, Nyerereism or Tuhmanism is still being thrashed out. But it certainly will not be straightforward Leninism.

Perhaps the most important consideration is that Africa

China's own poverty and austerity are a very doubtful recommendation. The fact that Chou and his party flew round Africa in two old-fashioned propeller planes, made in America and flown by Dutchmen, seemed to sum up the objection. Africa wants capital and expertise.

One Russian journalist even suggested: "It's not the Chinese you must worry about, it's the Japanese." And certainly the Japanese currently are far better placed to give Africa what she needs.

These objections suggest that there is not much natural affinity between Africa and China. If China were to establish an Albania in Africa, it would—for the time being at least—have to be by a coup, unlikely — the coup would certainly be followed by a hectic reaction on the mainland. And if Zanzibar were suddenly to be taken over by the Chinese — which seems highly unlikely — will all over the continent.

Brazil to Recognize Red China 'Any Moment'

By JULIAN HARTT, from Rio de Janeiro

Brazil is expected soon to recognize Red China and legalize the Communist Party, outlawed since 1947.

The Journal de Brasil, frequently an early indicator of administration thinking, reported that President Joao Goulart is considering recognition of Peking "at any moment in the course of the next three months."

It said a commercial office of the Peking regime will be opened in Brazil this month as a followup to the visit of a Chinese trade mission last year.

The newspaper said a delaying factor in the recognition could be the wish of Foreign Minister Aroujo Castro, "desiring to be named ambassador to Washington," to avoid alienating U.S. opinion. Also, Brazil is urgently seeking American aid in rescheduling its critical overseas debts.

"The Communist Party's illegality is really a smoke-screen," said Jornal de Brasil. "Communists openly publish newspapers and magazines, make speeches, are candidates on the tickets of other parties, and participate openly in student and labor union activities."

"Luis Carlos Prestes, Brazilian Communist Party chief, has conferences with the President of the Republic, presidential candidates, intellectuals and officers of the armed forces."

(Los Angeles Times)

Yet the possibility exists that the new trends in Africa may, in the long run, play into China's hands. The return of British troops to East Africa has displayed to the radical youth wings how incomplete their uhuru has been, and how near at hand the old imperialists still are: the clichés about neo-colonialism now seem much less hollow.

The new middle-class elites of Africa, with their western habits and their comfortable lives, will become increasingly vulnerable to the proponents of a drastic second revolution.

If China enters the United Nations later this year she may well be able to appear as a much more genuine champion of African underdogs than the Russians.

The African governments, without prompting, will have to move further and faster to the left in order to survive.

Historic Buildings Trust Needs Property, Funds

By IAN STREET

Money is the key to successful operation of the private trust now in the process of being formed to save historic buildings in the capital city.

It will have to come, initially, in small amounts from membership fees paid by individuals and civic organizations of various kinds, and later in much larger amounts from endowments and legacies.

The trust cannot, in all fairness, become a drain on the finances of the city.

Mayor Wilson, at the luncheon held earlier this week to hear Dr. Hugh Borsman's proposal for setting up the historical trust, let it be known where the city's sympathies lie.

CITY HALL COMMENT

dispute of having no buildings to care for and no funds to acquire any.

There is no shortage of buildings in this area that provide links with the earliest history of British Columbia. Guests at Monday's luncheon received lists with 49 commercial and government structures built between 1858 and 1897 and 17 pioneer homes, the oldest dating back to 1853.

The trust will have to consider carefully where it will concentrate its efforts.

The obvious starting place is Bastion Square where the city has already acquired for preservation the Duncan building and the old courthouse. It now faces the prospect of renovating and maintaining these buildings.

City council has agreed in principle to turn the courthouse over to the B.C. Maritime Museum. The rental would be nominal, and with every prospect that the museum will break even within two or three years, the upkeep question appears to be solved.

A tougher proposition is the Duncan building. More than one group has shown interest in occupying the premises and the latest bid by a school of music seems promising. But there would still be the cost of putting the building into good enough condition for occupancy.

This building was purchased only to keep the historic square intact. And, despite all the efforts of the city, this goal hasn't yet been achieved. Another key building, the original home of the board of trade, completed in 1883, is on the market and could be demolished.

The council is well aware of the need to save this building, too, but it shows a natural reluctance to make the purchase and involve the city still further in the real estate business.

I think the answer is simple. Council could turn over the Duncan building to the historic buildings trust fund when it is formed and, using some of Mr. McPherson's generous gift to the citizens of Victoria, make a contribution towards the cost of acquiring the board of trade building across the street, which could also be handled by the trust.

This would have the desired effect of giving the trust some property to look after from the start and to provide an initial sizeable gift for the trust fund. The rest would be up to public-spirited citizens like Dr. Borsman.

Foreshore To Serve Recreation

A bylaw to ensure that all municipal foreshore will be used for recreational purposes only will be prepared by Central Saanich council.

Commercial leases already granted are not affected.

The B.C. government has jurisdiction over foreshore leases because it owns foreshore property from high water mark to 1,000 feet out to sea, but it has no jurisdiction over its use.

The B.C. lands department wants council's endorsement of a lease to a Vancouver man, but the council feels that it would create a precedent as it has never granted a foreshore lease to an individual.

Three Years in Asia

Victoria Teachers Find 'New Home'

By DON GAIN

Two Victoria school teachers who have made the world their oyster have just returned home from a three-year stint with the Colombo Plan in Southeast Asia.

Gloria and Colin Smith, daughter-in-law and son of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Smith, 464 Lamson, have covered most of the world since they started their teaching career in 1950.

MOUNT VIEW

They have made their home in Kamloops, Grand Forks, London, England, and Dawson Creek. They were counsellors at Mount View Senior High School before they went to Sarawak in 1960.

On their way home from the town of Bau, where they have taught for the past two years, they took a six-week tour of Singapore, Bangkok, Northern Thailand, Angkor Wat, Phnom Penh, Saigon, Hong Kong, Formosa, Osaka and Kyoto.

SECOND HOME

Getting to know the people was the most rewarding experience for the Smiths.

"I really feel now that I have a second home," said Mrs. Smith, "because I almost feel the children I taught are part of my family."

"Books, buildings and scenery give you a lot but in the end it's the people who are most important," she said.

MUSIC SYLLABUS

Mrs. Smith taught music at the secondary school in Bau. She set up the music syllabus for the Sarawak schools and is publishing a three-volume songbook for the school system.

The songbook, entitled Malaysia Sings, contains about 80 songs in each volume, in English, Chinese, Malay and seven Dyak dialects.

FIRST DYAK

The Smiths taught the first Dyak to attend UBC. Through their encouragement 20-year-old D. M. Unting is in his second year arts, studying to be a high school teacher.

For the first year they spent in Sarawak, now part of Malaysia, they ran the government school in Kanowit on the Rejang River.

THE SAME FOOD

Both there and at Bau they made a point of mingling with their students, eating the same food with them.

"In this way we got to know them," Mr. Smith said.

In spite of the humid weather and destructive floods they came to love the country and the people.

"I'd say I went as a teacher and came back as a student," said Mr. Smith.

"I honestly feel we in the West have more to learn from Asia than they have to learn from us."

Speed-Cut Request Crash Sequel

A double solid line and a reduction from 60 to 50 miles an hour in the speed limit on the Patricia Bay Highway near the approaches to Mount Newton Cross Road is being requested by Central Saanich council.

Tuesday, there was a collision between a car and school bus carrying 25 children at that intersection.

Thorough Study Of Charges Urged by Calder

The provincial government and the federal Indian affairs branch should "investigate thoroughly" a letter of resignation by a social worker in northern B.C., the legislature was told Wednesday.

TOO LARGE

There was a shortage of social workers in northern B.C.; the area was too large for one man to handle and bad roads made it difficult for the Indian affairs branch representative at Whitehorse to visit in B.C.

35,000 MILES

He said Mr. du Temple appears to be responsible for about 35,000 square miles of Atlin constituency.

But he took exception to the alleged "flourishing of prostitution." Mr. Calder said he knew most of the families in the area personally. "and I will have to deny that charge."

SHOULD BE STUDIED

Alan Macfarlane (L-Oak Bay) said allegations by Mr. du Temple and other provincial social workers such as Mrs. Bridget Moran of Prince George should be studied by the legislature's committee on social welfare and education.

The provincial government was urged by Mr. Calder to extend the government-owned

Boss Calls Du Temple Young, Green

Jim Sadler, provincial director of social welfare, said Wednesday a young social worker who criticized British Columbia welfare services "is misinformed, young and green."

Mr. Sadler was commenting at a press conference on charges by Wallace du Temple, 23, who claimed in a letter of resignation sent to Premier Bennett that welfare work in northern B.C. is a farce.

Mr. Sadler said that before Mr. du Temple wrote to Premier Bennett he had told Vera Dallas, regional superintendent of the welfare department at Prince George, that he intended to quit to return to university to study anthropology.

Pacific Great Eastern railway to the seaport of Stewart.

Failing this, he said, the government should consider negotiating with Ottawa to purchase the CNR line between Prince George and Prince Rupert.

The province was told it should take a lead in construction of remaining road links in northwestern B.C. needed to establish a Pacific Coast highway.

Another Ford in Future?

FAIRFIELD, Idaho — The 23-year marriage of Henry Ford II, 46, and his wife Anne, 44, ended when she won a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty, apparently clearing the way for his marriage to an Italian beauty.

Ford has been linked for a year with Maria Christina Vettore Austin, 34, who divorced British naval officer William Austin. The Ford divorce was granted by Judge Charles Scraggin, who divorced Happy Murphy a year ago so she could marry Nelson Rockefeller.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — About 4,000 Ohio State University students staged an orderly "sympathy" jaywalk after co-ed Marjorie Cocozello, 19, was jailed 2½ hours for failing to pay a $5 jaywalk fine. The fine later was dismissed by a judge who said the girl "has gone through enough."

CHICAGO — A 10-year-old Negro Grade 4 pupil gave birth to a five-pound, 15-ounce girl and officiating Dr. Carlo Fioravelli said both were doing fine.

DALLAS — Jesse Parker, 23, a Negro convicted of raping a white woman in 1961, was executed in the electric chair.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Actor Leon Ames' wife was kidnapped at gunpoint from her home but police quickly rescued her, recovered $50,000 ransom and arrested car mechanic Wayne Bonner, 21.

LOS ANGELES — The U.S. Coast Guard auxiliary in Miami agreed to accept the FDR yacht Potomac, bought for $35,000 at auction by singer Elvis Presley. He planned to give it to the March of Dimes but the gift was refused.

VANCOUVER — Magistrate Ralph Reid ruled aged and infirm people cannot be convicted of vagrancy. He spoke while acquitting hermit Larry McNamara, 61, jailed three times last year for living in a rockpile on an empty city lot.

NEW YORK — Fran Corchia, 16, was trampled—but escaped with bruises—when 1,000 girls stampeded outside the Beatles' hotel. The singers did not return from Washington until an hour later.

STOCKHOLM — A newspaper said Sweden's armed forces chief, Gen. Torsten Rapp, has asked the government to restrict movements by foreign embassy personnel because Soviet trade representatives have been making trips "which can have no other aim than spying."

TORONTO — The jury trying John and Mary Garbella for the murder of cab driver Michael Wirtz was dismissed and a new trial was ordered because juror Robert Jardine went home for an hour after learning his wife's father had died.

MADRID — Prince Carlos, 33, fiancé of Dutch Princess Irene, 24, met Gen. Francisco Franco. No details of their talk were given.

CHADRON, Neb. — Richard Davison, 32, was allowed out of jail to marry Irene Kutschera, 33. He is charged with non-support of his first wife and three children.

Steelworkers Rebuffed by Mine-Mill

TORONTO (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CLC) Wednesday offered to discuss affiliation with its rival, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), "raiding" but there was little use talking of unity while raiding was going on.

Commenting on disclosures in Toronto by Steelworkers director Larry Sefton that Mine-Mill workers would first have to stop raiding its membership, Larry Sefton, Steelworkers' District Six director, said in an open letter to Kenneth Smith, Mine-Mill national president, that a merger would present a united front to the mining, smelting and refining industries.

He said the welfare of non-ferrous workers "surmounts all other considerations."

Acquittal B.C. Precedent?

A precedent in enforcement of B.C. liquor regulations may have been set by Magistrate Oster in Victoria magistrate's court yesterday.

The magistrate acquitted cab driver Donald Elton Kennedy, 30, of illegally selling liquor from a vehicle. Conviction on the charge would have meant among other things, that the vehicle used—in this case a cab belonging to Quarter Cab Co.—would have been confiscated.

NO DOUBT

The magistrate said there was no doubt Kennedy would have been convicted if he had been charged simply with illegally selling liquor. But the charge had been amended to include reference to the vehicle.

The magistrate reviewed the uncontroverted facts of the case, which were that on Nov. 3 Kennedy picked up two police officers disguised in plainclothes, was asked by them where they might get "a bottle," and said he didn't know but took them to the Quarter Cab office, 708 Johnson.

INTO OFFICE

Kennedy had gone into the office, returned to tell the police officers the price, returned to the office and returned with a bag which contained liquor, told them the price would be $8, and driven the officers to a hotel, where they had paid the driver $8.45. The cab meter had shown a fare of $1.45.

In an exhaustively researched judgment, Magistrate Oster said it was necessary for the crown to prove every part of the charge, including that the sale was "from" a vehicle.

ON PARKING LOT

He said the crown may, at most, have proved that "the sale started on the parking lot (of the cab company) and ended in the cab."

He reviewed the history of the legislation involved and concluded that for conviction the liquor "should be shown to have been carried . . . in the vehicle for an illegal purpose and sold therefrom."

POSSIBLE DEAL

Another interpretation, he said, could lead to a situation where a bootlegger and his customer would slip into a stranger's car on a parking lot to conduct their deal in private, and the stranger's car would be confiscated.

Such an interpretation, he said, would "debate the coinage of reason."

Newsmen See Bomber Crash

PORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Two hundred newspaper men and foreign military personnel saw a United States B-26 bomber crash in flames Tuesday night during a demonstration at Elgin Air Base. The crew of two perished.

Witnesses said the bomber had just completed a straining run with its 50-calibre machineguns blazing and was pulling up when the right wing fell off.

$150,000 Fire Hits in Kodiak

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A $150,000 fire swept the Kodiak waterfront Tuesday night, destroying the city's largest drydock.

The blaze, fanned by winds reaching 30 knots, badly damaged the Alpine Marine Repair, destroyed an apartment in the same building and levelled a home across the street. There were no injuries.

He said his decision in the case "would seem to break new ground" and suggested it should be referred to a higher court as a legal precedent could be set for such cases.

"STATING CASE"

Crown counsel Peter Birkett said later he intends to do this, likely by what is known as "stating a case."

Under this procedure, a judge of a higher court would give his opinion of Magistrate Oster's decision for precedent-setting purposes, without actually retrying Kennedy.

Sohan Singh Basi, 2946 Rose Street, was fined $40 for careless driving and $50 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident. His driving licence was suspended.

City court was told at his trial the defendant's car was in collision with another Dec. 31 while he was turning from Market Street onto Douglas, and his car continued over a traffic island and stopped on Government near Bay.

Basi testified that following the accident he walked his wife to her job at a nearby coffee shop, stayed for a coffee, and walked home, where he was interviewed by police. Magistrate William Oster said the defendant had left his car so near the scene his offence in failing to remain was slight as it could be for him still to be guilty of the charge.

Jumping Jacques Not Long Enough

New York Ranger goalie Jacques Plante's arms weren't long enough to grab puck shot by Ken Wharram, left, who scored for Chicago Black Hawks in second period last night. Also raising stick is Stan Mikita, background. Behind Wharram is Harry Howell of Rangers. Hawks won, 5-2. —(AP Photofax)

Results Were Negative Despite Book Session

So much for positive thinking. Toronto Maple Leafs, crammed with clean thoughts from The Power of Positive Thinking, skated out to do battle with Montreal Canadiens last night in Montreal. They lost, 4-0, and left positive they won't finish first in the National Hockey League.

"Maybe they didn't read the book," snarled kindly old Punch Imlach, who presented each Leaf with a copy on the train en route from Toronto. His theory was that if Montreal's Bobby Rousseau could score five goals in one game after reading it, the entire Leaf team should be able to manage one or two. In his last four games against Toronto, Hodge has shut them out three times and because where Leafs are concerned Charlie Hodge of Canadiens won, 2-1.

For that matter, Leafs aren't particular about what goals they face these days. They're hardly scoring against anybody. In their last 15 games they have won twice and scored but 22 goals.

Imlach, more than somewhat frustrated, tried everything to get a goal in the third period. Three times on power plays he sent out five defencemen and let his forwards stalk on the bench.

BETTER CHANCES
"And they had better chances to score than the forwards did all night," he snapped. "At least they got into the corners and fought for the puck."
"Oh, I'm going to work these guys early tomorrow," he promised. "Playing like this, they should get a rest!"

Views of Sport

By Red Smith

Jack Kearns is dead but his story of Dempsey's Loaded Gloves lives on. Did that sly old schemer really encase his tiger's fists in plaster casts to help him dismantle Jess Willard, or was Kearns romancing when he said he did? It would be pleasant to believe that this letter from John (The Nonpareil) O'Hara might serve as a last chapter of the story, but probably it would be vain to hope so.

The creator of "Pal Joey" and author of a hundred other delights testifies as follows:
"My father was pretty good with his hands, whether he was operating on a man's skull to relieve the pressure on the brain, or breaking a Kluxer's jaw for calling him a Molly Maguire. Patrick O'Hara, MD, could open you up with a scalpel or with a jab and an uppercut."

He Had Credentials

"Thus qualified, he had credentials as an expert when he told me about the Willard-Dempsey fight at Toledo."

"He, and a private carload of Pennsylvanians who were the paying guests of Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, attended that fight, and I can add his testimony to the revived controversy."

"He told me that when the fight was over, he helped Willard leave the arena. Willard, he said, could not see clearly, because Dempsey's fists had been soaked in plaster-of-Paris, and my old man led Willard out of the place."

"In 1919 I didn't understand the plaster-of-Paris bit and so my old man hated Dempsey, really hated him, and when Dempsey fought Carpenter in Jersey City, the old man bet $1,000 on Carpenter. To make matters worse, during his absence I had sneaked the car out of the garage and wrinkled a fender. Things were not just right for quite a long while afterwards."

Ancient History Dept.

As long as we're dealing in ancient history, it may be forgivable to recall a day when a little old Scot—it could have been Willie Dunn, our first National Open Champion, but memory grows dim—came into the sports department of the old St. Louis Star to display a marvelous invention.

It was a driver which, when swung in a style calculated to send a ball 250 yards down the middle, emitted a shrill whistle of approbation. Swung improperly, the club remained mute. "The little man demonstrated." But there were perforations which, on a perfect stroke, sucked in air currents like this—the thing screamed like a tortured banshee.

Warning to his topic, the little man swung again and again. Commanche howls filled the city room. Just a few yards away was the desk of Frank W. Taylor, the managing editor, not a patient man. On the sixth or seventh swing, Mr. Taylor lifted his head and his voice.

The little Scot did not wait for the elevator. When last seen he was rounding a turn of the stairway hitting every third step, his driver screaming as he fled.

Keep Left Arm Straight

What drags this up from the dark backward and abyss of memory is a press release describing a new golf shirt designed to correct the error of bending the left arm. Concealed in the sleeve is a tube of elastic material with a removable stiffening member which overlies the inside of the elbow joint. When the golfer bends his arm, the stiffening member restricts movement.

The obvious question is, what'll they think of next? Springs in tennis shoes for the loser who wants to look graceful vaulting the net to congratulate his conqueror at Forest Hills?

Maybe Doc Kearns had something bigger than he realized. If Jack Nicklaus wore his left arm in a cast, he might never lose a round.

Mercs Whip Cavaliers

Bob Holmes scored twice and Toby Wilson, Bob Harris and Al Tarbett once for Canada, who open Coy Cup play Sunday against Equimault Pontiacs. Dennis Taylor and Paul Blon got the Cougar goals.

Suburban Mercurys downed Dorman's Cavaliers, 4-1, in the other game on two goals by Gary Fletcher and singles by Jim Middleton and Dave Woodruff. Whitey Ashworth scored for Cavaliers.

St. Louis	34	14	20	10	129	39

Last night's scores: Toronto 0 at Montreal 4. New York 2 at Boston 3.
Next game: tonight—Boston at Detroit.

Bernie Geoffrion, who turns 33 on Friday, scored two of the goals that kept Canadiens in a first-place tie with Chicago last night. They gave him a total of 365 for his career, tying him with Ted Lindsay at third place among all-time NHL scorers, behind Gordie Howe and Maurice Richard.

KEEP PACE
Dave Balon got his 22nd goal and Gilles Tremblay his 21st.

Chicago kept pace with Canadiens by beating New York Rangers, 5-2, in Chicago. Billy Hay scored his 18th and 19th goals. Kenny Wharram got his 29th, Bobby Hull his 34th and Eric Nesterenko his fourth. Rod Gilbert got his 21st and Andy Bathgate his 16th for Rangers, who have now lost five straight games.

For the statistically-minded, Hull is now running exactly even with the pace he set in 1962 when he tied the league record of 50 goals in a season.

Fitness Grants Not for All

Let's Clear Up Some Confusion

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP)—Roger Dion, head of the government's fitness and amateur sport directorate, says the men running amateur sport in Canada haven't yet fully grasped the basic aims behind the federal program.

"In some quarters it's still considered as a windfall for athletes, or as a welfare program for poor but deserving sports bodies," he said in an interview.

Dion, 37-year-old expert on community recreation, believes too much emphasis has been placed in the press on grants that allow greater Canadian participation in international events, or in helping amateur sports bodies to stage their championships or other events.

"Above all, the fitness program is to encourage all citizens to lead a more active life in good provincial or local sports or recreation programs."

BIG BUDGET
The fitness directorate, a branch of the national health department, was set up by an act of Parliament in 1961 and given an annual budget of $5,000,000 to "encourage, promote and develop fitness and amateur sport in Canada."

In the initial years, the budgets haven't reached the statutory $5,000,000 limit. From a start of $1,000,000 in 1961, the funds available to the directorate reached $2,000,000 for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1964. It is expected Parliament will approve a $3,000,000 budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

HALF AND HALF
Half of the directorate's budget goes directly to the provinces for their fitness and amateur sports projects, and from the provincial shares come scholarships for undergraduate study in fitness fields.

The federal half goes for grants to national sports bodies and to universities with schools of physical education, and also takes care of requests for grants-in-aid for study at the advanced professional level.

MEETS ANNUALLY
A 10-member advisory committee under chairman Ken Richardson of Montreal meets in Ottawa early each year to consider applications for grants and to make recommendations to the government.

At its meeting here last February the committee will scan 45 briefs asking a total of $1,200,000. A few of these briefs will be rejected because the organizations are asking money for capital development, such as facilities, equipment or buildings, which is not covered in the directorate's terms of reference.

MAKES PLEA
At a recent meeting of the Canadian Amateur Sports Federation, composed of most sport governing bodies in Canada, Dion made a plea for more contact between his directorate and sports leaders.

More frequent meetings, he said, could clear up some of the confusion among the sport bodies about the basic objectives of the directorate, and allow the federal officials to offer advice and any help needed in preparation of applications for grants.

MIGHT FIND HELP
For example, said Dion, local sports or recreational groups who now complain of receiving no assistance federally might find help available at the provincial level. The directorate would benefit through the knowledge it would gain of the sports involved.

The meetings would not all-star club for competition with necessarily have to take place in Ottawa, said Dion. His staff was ready to travel and meet sports leaders across the country.

"Remember, we're on your side," he told the federation delegates.

ROGER DION
... a windfall

But the real goal is simply fitness for its own sake, and if the program does no more than instill good habits that will carry on into adulthood, they'll be satisfied.

School children in B.C. are spending 10 per cent more time in fitness training than they did three years ago, and they're not complaining.

THREE PER WEEK
"We are aiming at a minimum of three periods a week at all schools," says Education Minister Leslie Peterson who outlined the program in 1960 and had it instituted the following year.

Peterson, who keeps himself in trim with daily exercises plus volleyball sessions at the YMCA, says the objective is mass participation.

"There used to be too much emphasis on team sports and reserving of fields and gymnasiums for the top teams to practise. There was not enough mass participation."

"The aim is to produce physically fit children, not star athletes, but with greater emphasis on participation there is bound to be some filtering out of talent."

Curling Roundup

Lerner Scrambling But Still Unbeaten

WINNIPEG — Hersh Lerner is still unbeaten in the Manitoba curling championship, but the defending champion is really scrambling.

For the second night in a row, Lerner found himself trailing, 7-2, after seven ends. Again he responded with four back to back for a 13-11 victory over Gerry Mackay of Brandon.

Lerner is now 3-0 in the double knockout competition, while Bob Stannard and Bruce Hudson are 2-0.

MELFORD — Syd Gardiner of Eaton stole single points on the last two ends here last night to beat Moe Valade of Saskatoon, 6-5, and force a deciding game in the northern Saskatchewan curling final.

Gardiner qualified through the "B" section of the double-knockout event. Valade was unbeaten until last night.

YORKTON — William Young of Carlyle beat Gordon Johnson of Yorkton, 7-6, here yesterday to win the "B" section of the southern Saskatchewan curling final.

CRICKET TEST
NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The fourth cricket Test seemed destined for a draw Wednesday when at close of play on the fourth day India, with eight second-innings wickets in hand, led England by 59 runs. The match ends today.

All three previous Tests in this five-match series were drawn.

England was all out for 451, giving it a first-innings lead of 107, and at the close India was 166 for two.

EDMONTON (CP) — Signing of end Mike Peterson of Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash., was announced today by Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

Palmer Wants Strong Director

Fewer Tournaments Please

By WILL GRIMLEY
NEW YORK (AP)—What pro golf needs, says Arnold Palmer, are fewer tournaments and a "big man" to run them.

Also, the golfing star from Latrobe, Pa., added Wednesday, the current television squabble between the sponsors and players is ridiculous and could not occur if the game were placed in the hands of a single, strong executive.

NEEDS POWER

"We need a man such as Joe Dey (executive director of the U.S. Golf Association) to administer our affairs," Palmer said. "He should be an executive, with power to make decisions, such as on this television question."

"It is ridiculous to put such important decisions in the hands of a players' committee. Jay Hebert (chairman of the players' committee) shouldn't be making decisions and announcements on long range policy. Our players' committees change from one year to the next."

BROADER SCOPE

Palmer said the tour needed a director with broader powers than those now vested in Jim Gaughan, the present nominal head of the tour.

"Don't misunderstand me, Jim is a very fine guy and quite capable in his field, he added.

"But he is a newspaper man. His field is public relations. He knows little about the actual operations of the tour."

"With 30 tournaments, I think all the top players would play in all of them, or virtually all of them. I know I would. With more than that, it is necessary to lay out at times for rest and practice, and this agitates sponsors."

"I don't mean there couldn't be more than 30, but there should only be 30 approved events. Others could be held on a non-accepted basis, a sort of secondary tour, if the players wanted it."

Palmer was the leading money winner last year with a record $128,230.

Palmer, here to add a laundry and dry cleaning business to his mushrooming enterprises, frankly discussed the ticklish issue threatening to drive a wedge between the tournament players and the men who put up the money.

The players are demanding rights to the television money. The sponsors contend this should be part of their revenue.

Palmer hasn't chosen sides in the dispute, but currently he seems more in the corner of the sponsors.

Does Keys Fit?

REGINA (CP)—Eagle Keys, deposed head coach of the Western Football Conference Edmonton Eskimos, met briefly with Saskatchewan Roughriders officials Wednesday to discuss an offer of a line coach's post.

Roughriders head coach Bob Shaw offered Keys the position shortly after Keys was fired by Eskimos last Wednesday. Keys, 40, had been with Eskimos for 12 years, the last five as head coach. Eskimos finished in last place last season, winning but two of 16 games.

No announcement was made after Keys met with Shaw and Roughriders president Bob Kramer.

Shaw, posing for pictures with Keys and new assistant coach Hal Griffin, said: "I hope you're looking at our 1964 staff right now."

Shaw's two assistants last year, line coach Gord Ackerman and backfield coach Bob Dennis, resigned at the end of 1963.

Keys, who is also considering a second job offer from a Canadian Football League team, said he would prefer to stay in the west.

"A big factor is the kind of fellow you work for. I'll tell you right now if I had a preference, I'd like to be a part of this outfit," Keys said.

Swimmers Pick Coach

VANCOUVER (CP)—Howard Pirby of Vancouver has been named coach of Canada's 1964 Olympic Games swimming and diving team.

He was elected by a "substantial majority" in a mail vote among the eight sections of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association, said CISA president Alan Harvey.

The 39-year-old mentor of the Canadian Dolphin Swimming Club here is the first B.C. coach since 1932 to head an Olympic swim team. He was British Empire Games swim coach in 1958 at Cardiff, Wales.

LINFIELD WINS CUP

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Linfield beat Glenelg 3-2 in the Irish Gold Cup final replay soccer match here Wednesday night.

MANHATTAN, Kan.—Kansas State University president Dr. James McClellan called for a $3.50 boost in student fees to finance a crash program to improve the college's football team.

ERNIE RICHARDSON'S

CURLING CAPSULES

The skip should always stay behind the tee line until the rock comes to a complete stop so that he can obtain a good view and make a complete study of the full course of the stone. It is also wise to watch whether or not the rock has been released on the line of the skip's broom.

Reading the ice is not only essential early in the match but a study must be kept throughout each game. You will find most ice heavier in the early stages, therefore, when hitting it is best to have your players throw more weight than you would ask for in later ends.

You will also find the rocks will curl more as the game progresses. That is, of course, the usual result when the pebble starts to wear off. There are often runs and falls that do not show up until two or three ends have been played. In these cases the ice generally reacts differently with the variation of weight played.

One of the most important requirements for all four members of a curling team, and particularly the skip, is reading the ice correctly. And, the earlier in the game the skip and his players pick up the many tricks of the ice, the more successful the rink will be.

This capability in players gives them an edge early in a game, which can be a deciding factor, especially in major competition where the teams are evenly matched.

All team members should know the ice as well as the skip, and if they do it will make their shots easier. It also serves to give them better judgment on sweeping of shots where weight is important.

The secret of reading the ice is to watch every stone from the time it leaves the player's hand until it comes to rest. That means watching stones played by your own team and opponents as well.

Getting the weight and the amount of draw in the early ends can mean the difference between victory and failure. You should have your lead man draw to both sides of the house if given the chance by the opponents. And, if he should miss the draw it is best to mix by being heavy. Short rocks can be a serious problem as they are likely to block your chance of getting at an opponent's shot stone.

If there are trick breaks or runs in the ice and you find them early it is possible to use this knowledge to good advantage. Should there be a bad fall that is difficult to judge, try to draw near that run, or try for a takeout and roll to the most difficult spot in the house.

The more difficult you make the job for your opponents, the better chance you have to win, and sometimes the determination to get one particular stone out of the rings can result in your opponents giving up two or more shots on the end.

Campus Sports Report

Varsity Golfers Battling for Crown

By ROBIN JEFFREY
It's up . . . and away for University of Victoria golfers this Friday as the mid-term break provides an opportunity to play the university championship at Gorge Vale.

The campus golf club has not been as active this year as in the past, says spokesman John Hadfield, but Friday's competition is expected to bring out some pretty fair golfing talent.

TOUGH FIELD

Canadian junior finalist Noel Pumfrey will likely be defending his title against Earl Francis, Vic Derman, Bruce McFarlane, Jim Pomeroy and Hadfield among others.

Current holders of the university button are Hadfield and McFarlane who retained it against Peter Fortye and Chris Folger at Oak Bay on Feb. 2.

WELCOME RUMOR

Golfers have heard some welcome rumors lately concerning the forming of a local high school golf league. It seems quite likely that if such a league is formed, the university will be invited to enter at least one team.

Hadfield feels that the university could enter two strong units, and that most of the top golfers on campus would be willing to play for the university.

BIG HELP

"Any competition is good competition," he said, "and the type of competition provided by a league of this type would be a big help to golfing on campus."

Tea-off time for Friday's tournament is 11 a.m. at Gorge Vale. There are prizes for low net and low gross.

GREYS BEATEN

QUICK KICKS: A swim splash party is scheduled for the Crystal Gardens this evening with a sock hop at the Student Union Building after . . . the two men's five-pin bowling teams which traveled to UBC last weekend were both bowled over by the mainland competition. The girls' squad, did better, however, edging UBC five games to four . . . UBC girls' bowling team comes to Victoria on Feb. 29 and March 1 for the second half of the home-and-home series . . . intra-mural basketball aficionados have been granted permission to practice in the Gordon Head gym at noon on Monday, Wednesday and Friday . . . the Athletic Council has begun publishing its own newsletter, "What Happened," to keep students informed on the lighter side of campus sports.

TO WASHINGTON
Volleyballers travel to the University of Washington this Friday to play against U of W and UBC.

On Feb. 22 the big university tournament of the year is set for UBC. The Western Inter-Collegiate Open expects to draw teams from Washington, Edmonton, Calgary and Winnipeg as well as UBC and Victoria.

And on March 7 Sea Island hosts the B.C. championship. The winner of this gathering goes on to the Western Canada and Canadian finals in Winnipeg on March 15.

Judging by Victoria's record against last year's finalists, it could go all the way.

Despite the fact that they can't accept promotion, the soccer Vikings are still terrorizing the Second Division of the district soccer league.

CANT ACCEPT

Vikings learned last December that because of a university rule which forbids athletics in December and April (exam months) they would not be able to accept promotion to the first division if they win the Second Division title.

Since Oct. 20 Vikings have lost once and conceded only three goals. Last Sunday they seemed to find their scoring punch as they belted last place Kings 11-0.

FACE KICKERS

This Sunday they meet league-leading Kickers, and a win would almost certainly assure Vikings of first place in the league.

B.C. Hydro Buying North Power Firm

B.C. Hydro expects to announce purchase of Northern British Columbia Power Co. Ltd. in about a month, the Colonist learned yesterday.

If the deal goes through it will leave only two privately owned power utility companies in B.C.

Hydro officials confirmed negotiations with Power Corp. of Canada for the utility have been going on for some time. They declined to confirm authoritative reports of a price slightly over $4,000,000.

The company serves two B.C. communities, Prince Rupert and Stewart, and the town of Hyder in Alaska. The Stewart area is the site of a $35,000,000 copper development proposed by Granduc Mines Ltd.

The purchase would be Hydro's second step to build up an advance power load for the vast Peace project which goes on line in 1968.

Hydro agreed earlier to buy up to $14,000,000 worth of power from Aluminum Co. of MONTREAL (CP)—Consolidated Paper Corporation Ltd. announces it is spending $14,000 for a new high-speed paper machine at its plant in Grandmere, 70 miles southwest of Quebec City.

Canada Ltd. to serve the Terrace-Smithers-Fort St. James area into the early 1970s.

Officials said the utility has run out of surplus generating capacity and is in an area of expanding load growth. Power Corp. had to choose between increasing its investment in generation facilities or selling.

The other private utilities are West Kootenay Power and Light, controlled by Consolidated Mining and Smelting, and East Kootenay Power and Light, also owned by Power Corp. A government spokesman said East Kootenay is not so strategically located that purchase is imminent.

Motel Maid Murdered

California Stranglings —Four Within Month

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—An 18-year-old Salinas motel maid has become the fourth northern California woman to be strangled to death in less than a month, coroner Chris Hill said yesterday.

Barbara Jane Moritz, missing since Sunday, was found dead Tuesday with her bra twisted around her throat on a lonely dead end road between Monterey and Salinas.

The stepdaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Baron of Salinas was found dead and partially disrobed.

Authorities immediately began consultation to determine whether there was a connection between this latest tragedy and the recent strangulations in Oakland of Mary Elizabeth Martin and her 18-year-old daughter Caroline, and a similar killing in San Pablo of Mrs. Jane Stapleton, 43, a policeman's wife.

Strangler Tries In East

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Another strangling attempt was reported Tuesday night to investigators of the 11 unsolved women stranglings in eastern Massachusetts.

Mrs. Carole Ferdinand, 25, told police she answered her door, thinking it was her husband, and saw a man holding a woman's stocking wrapped around his hand. She said the man, wearing a leather jacket, goggles or heavy glasses and a fur hat with flaps, fled when she screamed and slammed the door in his face.

Cargo Ships Of Canada Almost Gone

MONTREAL (CP)—M. G. Angus, president of Montreal's Lunham and Moore Shipping Limited, said Tuesday night Canada has slipped from fourth place among the world's shipping nations to a position of "extinction."

Mr. Angus said Canada's ocean-going fleet has disappeared and this is "the saddest chapter in post-war Canadian economic history."

The country's 172 merchant vessels of 1948 had dwindled to "one tanker and a 15-year-old dry cargo freighter."

"We are now completely dependent on foreign shipping for our export trade. Our annual net deficit in shipping services is $100,000,000."

AUBURN, N.S. — Laborer Aubrey Lutz, 23, walked into the police station with his baby daughter in his arms after bullets wounded his wife and killed his wife's parents and a sister. He was charged with capital murder.

Ottawa's Tax Policies Violate Constitution

Federal tax policies are "violations of the constitution and a danger to Canadian nationhood," UBC economist Ralph Loffmark (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey) told the legislature yesterday.

Following a line taken by Premier Bennett at the federal-provincial fiscal conference late last year he termed tax equalization payments to have-not provinces as an "outrageous dote" that solves nothing.

They should not even be given with the title of a "Robin Hood" policy.

Equalization payments, he said, are one of the basic reasons why federal governments must continually resort to deficit-financing.

"They should eliminate these outrageous and irrational distributions which are carried on as a consequence of caprice, and nothing more."

When Ottawa can make grants to provinces for such things as education and welfare it is obviously over-taxing the people, he claimed.

Such taxation was a violation of provincial rights and a threat to confederation.

Prof. Loffmark said B.C. should retain enough of the taxes now going to Ottawa to enable the provincial government to meet its own constitutional obligations.

Defending the government's power policy he said B.C. Electric had spent $720,000,000 on power development over five years, while B.C. Hydro would spend only $700,000,000 on the Peace project over 10 years.

Taken together, the Peace and the Columbia were four times as good a deal as any alternatives put forth by the opposition, he claimed.

Professor Scores Ratio Idea

The importance of the pupil-teacher ratio in the field of education is a gross fallacy, a UBC professor told the legislature yesterday.

Prof. Ralph Loffmark (SC, Vancouver-Point Grey) asked MLAs to go back to their own school days for proof.

Under top teachers "it didn't matter whether you were in that room alone or with 50 others, he talked to you and to nobody else—at least you thought so."

Chant Lands Bennett

'Budget World's Best'

Premier Bennett brought in the best budget in the world this year, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant suggested in the legislature yesterday.

"There isn't another minister of finance anywhere in Canada, the United States or any other part of the world who wouldn't give his eye teeth to bring in such a budget like this one," he said.

"Do you want to survey space?" asked an NDP member.

Mr. Chant also predicted that the government's power policies "will bring about an economic and industrial revolution the like of which we forecast has never been experienced before on this continent."

British Columbia has such a potential for industrial output that within three decades it "will be the leading industrial province in Canada," he said.

The new bank "will be a great success and will become one of the greatest banks in North America . . . this bank is part of the evolution and growth of B.C., and there will never be a more opportune time to bring it in than now."

Today's Speakers

Agriculture Minister Frank Richter will be the first speaker at today's sitting in the legislature, which starts at 2 p.m.

Other members speaking in the budget speech debate will be David Barrett (NDP, Dewdney), Donald Robinson (SC, Lillooet) and William Speare (SC, Cariboo).

J. Donald Smith (SC, Victoria) and Jacob Huhin (SC, Victoria) will also speak.

There will also be "great opportunity" for rapid advancement in the field of banking in B.C., and Mr. Chant recommended that more young people "consider going into the field of finance."

The "Secrets" are here to stay" in the provincial legislature, "and you will decrease," he told the opposition parties.

"You have been weighed in the balance of public opinion and found wanting."

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — About 300 pilots of Qantas, the Australian international airline, Wednesday were ordered to strike at midnight Thursday, the manager of the Australian federation of air pilots said here.

City Docks Still Busy

Lumber Still Leads

Looks Like Another Big Year

By DON GAIN
Victoria's "greatest year for shipping," 1963, will be repeated in 1964 if present volume is an indication, harbor master Captain Ronald Newell said yesterday.

"In 1963 there were 413 deep-sea ships at Victoria," he said. "In January this year there were 34, the same number as last year. So far in February we're just about the same."

More than 75 per cent of the ships came to pick up lumber. "But as long as the Chinese and Russians have dollars and poor crops and keep buying our wheat we'll be busy at the grain elevator, too."

Asked about possible enlargement of grain-handling facilities at Victoria, he said "it would cost a lot of money."

"If you could foretell the next 20 years, it would be easy."

The present grain elevator holds 1,000,000 bushels, he said, and is owned by the Alberta Wheat Pool but is situated on land leased from the Crown.

Lot of Thought

"The people concerned with these things are giving the situation a lot of thought but when you're thinking of building new docks and hiring extra longshore gangs you can't go off half-cocked. You must consider getting the money back and keeping the extra men employed."

The captain did not know of any plans for expansion in the near future. Ogden Point docks are owned by the government and leased by the CNR.

He said disposition of ships at Ogden Point had been running quite smoothly.

"One time we had three ships at anchor but this was just due to the circumstances at the moment."

Time Money

"Ship movements are controlled very carefully because to their owners or charterers time is money."

"At one time we had eight berths in Victoria, five at Ogden Point and three at Rihet's, now Victoria Machinery Depot."

Capt. Newell recalled the days of the Blue Funnel and Empress ships.

Last in 1953

"The President Line used to call at the Outer Wharf, too. And the Aurang on the Australia-New Zealand run."

He checked his logbook and noted Aurang paid her last call May 14, 1953. "She was scrapped sometime later."

Capt. Newell has been harbor master and port warden for 18 years. A veteran seaman, he skippered the Tecumseh Park, Bowness Park and Cromwell Park for the Canadian government during the Second World War.

As harbor master he is responsible for the smooth operation of the traffic in and out of the port of Victoria. All incoming ships must report to him.

Many Tasks

He must see all port dues are paid and all government rules and regulations adhered to.

As port warden he inspects ships loading grain or concentrates to see they are clean and have bulkheads properly constructed to prevent shifting of cargo. He checks deckloads to see they are properly secured and all ships to ensure they are seaworthy and ready to load.

Swinging ashore from Shihwa Line freighter Toho Maru at Ogden Point is mahogany which came from Borneo and Philippines in log form and from Japan in lumber form. Consignee Peter Brotherston said his company would use 650-ton cargo for cabinets, mouldings and wood finishes in houses. General cargo freighter sails for Vancouver today. —(William A. Boucher)

Delegation Renews Drive For B.C. Shipyard Work

Students To Elect Rector

University of Victoria students will elect a rector in the general elections March 6.

A "rector" is an unofficial patron who holds office for one year.

The idea was put forth by Martlet editor Peter Bower at a students' council meeting. He got the idea from Edinburgh University which has had as rectors the Queen Mother and Harold Macmillan.

CHOICE OF RECTOR
The students will vote for Senator deHartland Molson, former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, or former Governor-General Vincent Massey, the names decided upon by the students' council.

The council will write to the first choice asking him to accept the honorary position. If he refuses, the second choice will be approached, and so on.

STUDENT FUNCTION
It is hoped that the rector will be able to appear at a special student function.

Students' council president Larry Devlin said he endorsed the idea wholeheartedly.

A delegation to Ottawa to seek a fair share of federal defence contracts for B.C. shipyards, called off last week because of the shipyard strike, is apparently on again.

Victoria Mayor R. B. Wilson has called a meeting for this morning in preparation for the journey, a business community source said last night, and the delegation is to leave Sunday.

He said the continuing strike does not provide a favorable climate for the delegation's submission to the federal government. But, he said, the strike does not alter the basic principles of the West Coast's case.

BUSINESS AND LABOR
Both business and labor circles are expected to be represented at today's meeting.

PROPOSAL REJECTED
The latest attempt to end the strike failed Monday, when it was confirmed that both the 22 unions involved and management had turned down a proposal by B.C. deputy labor minister William Sands to end the strike.

Mr. Sands' proposal called for a three-year contract with annual wage increases of 10 cents each, plus two cents more in improved fringe benefits.

TO TAKE OUT
Boilermakers, however, were to take a five-cent-an-hour wage cut in the first year to bring their pay into line with that of other categories.

Meanwhile, James McConachy, Victoria business agent for the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers (I.B.B.), last night described reports of disunion among the rank-and-file of his union as "utter garbage."

Highland Games Set Feb. 29
Final arrangements were completed this week by Victoria Highland Games Association for the annual indoor winter gathering, to be held Feb. 29 at the Club Sirocco.

More than 50 entries have already been received for the piping, dancing and various other events, both from the interior and the U.S.A.

Second Attack in Two Days

Hospital-Bed Dearth Blamed on Martin

Much of the blame for a shortage of hospital beds in Victoria lies "at the doorstep" of the minister of health services and hospital insurance, Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane said yesterday.

He was the second speaker in two days to criticize in the legislature the fact an entire floor of the new wing at Royal Jubilee Hospital has not been activated.

Victoria's MLA W. J. Skilling said Tuesday the minister should "try his very best" to get money allocated to get the 31-bed floor in use.

ALSO CLOSED

The Oak Bay Liberal member said the north and east wings of the old hospital are also closed because of not enough money to proceed with hospital rearrangement plans.

A new wing was opened recently but the hospital now has fewer beds available than it had at the end of the Second World War, Mr. Macfarlane said.

The shortage of beds would also be lessened, he said, if the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service would pay the cost of treatments on an out-patient basis.

If BCHIS paid for out-patient service, patients could come to the hospitals for such things as diagnosis, X-rays and treatment but would not have to occupy beds in hospitals.

"It's up to the hospitals," said red-faced Health Minister Martin. "We give them everything that's required."

"We are not criticizing anyone in the hospitals, we're criticizing this government... the problem is at your door, Mr. Minister," retorted the Oak Bay MLA.

TWO MONTHS

"In the city of Victoria, if you want to undergo elective surgery, the doctor has to book space in the hospital more than two months ahead, and I am told by these doctors what often happens is... at the last moment, a bed is not available and the operation is rescheduled again.

"The rescheduling period often is two months in advance again," Mr. Macfarlane said.

NOT ENOUGH

"During the past week, 11 cases were refused and rescheduled because there was not enough bed space for the patients coming in. Now, this is not good enough."

Victoria has "a unique problem" in that a large percentage of its population is elderly people, and there no doubt are a number of cancer cases waiting for hospital beds, he said.

The government's "short-sighted" hospital policy is causing a hardship to many people.

LONG OVERDUE

"The time is long overdue when this government should cover all treatments under BCHIS on an out-patient basis."

The Liberal MLA also asked for:

Better B.C. government holiday ferry service during the winter months, a divided highway leading to Swartz Bay, a second route to the city, provincial aid for a new convention centre in Victoria and creation of a cultural grants commission.

By BOB FETHICK

Victoria Old Age Pensioners' Group No. 1 has called proposed plans for a civic senior citizens' centre totally inadequate and has taken a two-year lease on the Victoria Ballroom for its own recreation centre.

Victoria Ballroom is only one block from the proposed $200,000 senior citizens' centre in Centennial Square.

R. H. French, president of Old Age Pensioners' Group No. 1, told the Colonist last night activities at the ballroom would be limited to members.

He said he had been a director in the Silver Threads Society but withdrew when the fund raising campaign for the senior citizens' centre started.

He suggested the new centre should have been designed to accommodate at least 1,300 people instead of 300, pointing out there are "25,000 retired people in Victoria alone."

The pensioners' group has taken a two-year lease on the ballroom at $300 a month with an option to buy at the end of the lease period for $80,000.

At present the pensioners' group has 700 members and is planning to take in at least 1,000 people on the membership rolls.

Largest in Canada

"We are the largest pensioners' group in Canada," says Mr. French.

Funds for the rental come from bingo games put on by the Pensioners' No. 1 and the Victoria Charities Association, a branch of Old Age Pensioners' No. 1.

Up until now $8,000 has been spent on renovating the old building with new wiring, lighting and plumbing.

Mr. French said last night the way rentals were going it looked as though his organization would be able to purchase the building.

He said there were two other organizations seeking to rent the hall on alternate Saturday nights and the organization was experimenting with a Friday night Old Time Dance, which will be open to the public.

He said it was a little early to say what program the pensioners would follow if they purchased the ballroom, but said the building would be open to members every day.

Purchase of the building would require a $20,000 down payment.

Exercise Feb. 21

Emergency Forces Tackle Holocaust

The ability of Greater Victoria emergency forces to cope with a holocaust, if a nuclear attack is ever mounted against Canada, will be tested during a seven-hour civil defence exercise on Feb. 21.

More than 100 Victoria civil defence emergency staff, including representatives of the various municipalities, will meet at disaster headquarters' sites in Duncan for the test.

Problems to be studied include the possibilities of a landslide on the Malahat, fires, nuclear fallout, looting, illness and food shortage.

TEN CITIES HIT
For the sake of the test, it will be assumed Vancouver is hit by a nuclear weapon, along with nine other Canadian cities.

A new innovation in the operation will be civilian pilots from Victoria who will be flying their own aircraft to assist in reconnaissance, transport key personnel, patrol utility lines and provide an airborne communications system.

Victoria CD zone co-ordinator James Somerville said the problems posed during the exercise "will be as realistic as possible."

Recognize Reds Liberals Say
Victoria Liberal Association last night voted to ask Ottawa to recognize Red China.

The vote followed a debate between city solicitor Terry O'Grady who argued against the move and lawyer Herbert Matthews arguing in favor.

Don't Be Afraid—Attack Cuba!

Nikita Khrushchev wanted the world as a growing position—not as a radioactive rubbish heap, Eric D. Butler, national director of the Australian League of Rights, said last night.

Mr. Butler addressed the Christian Action Movement at King Arthur's Round Table. He is on a 13-week tour of Canada on behalf of his association.

It was because of Khrushchev's attitude, said Mr. Butler, that he himself did not think the "physical extermination of Cuba" would result in nuclear war.

"I think Cuban exiles should be trained and brought together as a force, backed by the U.S. and should spearhead action against Cuba to eliminate Castro's regime," he said.

"I think it could be done with the minimum of physical violence and I don't think it would lead to a nuclear attack from Russia. Mr. Khrushchev—as we saw during the Cuba crisis—is too fond of backing down and becoming a Santa Claus who saves the world when he is faced with a decision of this nature. I think this action should be taken because Cuba has challenged the peace of the rest of the world."

Pork Chop Solves Problem

By BASIL FITZGERALD

The busy individual with a heavy office routine or time-consuming business commitments always has a problem with menus, and one of the great labor-saving devices, and also one of the most palatable, is the pork chop. The big problem is to get your pork chops cut thick enough — most of our supermarkets and meat stores pre-cut chops and they are invariably too thin. However, ask your meat man to cut your chops at least 1/2" thick and then you are away to the races and what can be more succulent than pork chops properly cooked. Here are some recipes:

PORK CHOPS CARIBBEAN
6 loin pork chops, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 1 1/2 cups uncooked rice, salt, 6 large slices of onion, 6 slices lime or lemon, 6 tablespoons chili sauce, 3 cups tomato juice, 1/2 tspn. Tabasco sauce.

Preheat oven to 325°F.
In a heavy casserole heat the oil and brown the chops on both sides. Remove the chops and drain off all but 4 tablespoons of fat. Stir in the rice, mix well with the fat and arrange the pork chops on top of the rice. Season well with salt. Place a slice of onion, a slice of lime and one tablespoon of chili sauce on top of each chop. Add the tomato juice and the tabasco, cover tightly and bake for one hour.

PORK CHOPS WITH PAPRIKA
6 loin pork chops, 1 clove garlic (chopped), 1 tspn. caraway seed, 2 tspns. paprika, salt and pepper to taste, 1 cup dry white wine.
Arrange the chops in a shallow baking dish—make sure they are not touching. Mix the garlic, the caraway seeds, paprika, salt and pepper, and sprinkle over the chops. Add the wine. Cover and allow to marinate for two hours.

Preheat the oven to 300°F. and bake the chops in the marinade, uncovered, until tender. Add more wine if necessary. Serve with buttered noodles.

The choice of vegetables to go with either of these pork chop dishes is a matter of taste, but I see more and more celery root on the market these days, and this can be excellent, just boiled and seasoned with salt, pepper and butter. Remember there is nothing wrong with serving a good red wine with pork—preferably a Bordeaux.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband died 13 years ago. Yesterday would have been our 50th wedding anniversary, had he lived.

I tried to keep myself occupied all day so I wouldn't think about it. Everything went well until about 4 p.m. when a department store truck pulled up in the driveway. A close friend of mine had the nerve to send me a full set of china as a golden anniversary gift. I was shocked at first, then just plain hurt. I cried all night.

This morning I re-packed the dishes, called the store and asked them to come and get the box. I just this minute finished talking to my son on the telephone. He said I was wrong to return the gift. Was I? How can people be so cruel? I'd like your opinion.—RESENTFUL.

Dear Resentful: A woman who would send a full set of china as a gift may be mistaken but she was not trying to be cruel. Fault her judgment, but remember the gift was intended as a token of friendship.

I hope you will phone her soon or drop a note and apologize for returning the dishes. Tell her you were not thinking clearly that day and now you realize she was trying to be kind.

Dear Ann Landers: We are two high school seniors who are writing about a girl in our class. We will call her Miss X, although Mrs. X would be more appropriate because she is married.

Very few people know about her marriage. We happened to find out as the result of a strange coincidence which I won't take the time to go into here.

The question is this: Mrs. X's husband went into the army shortly after the marriage. Since he was shipped overseas three months ago she has had more dates than any three girls in our class. Mrs. X is living at home with her parents and they don't have the slightest idea that she is married.

We think her husband is getting a raw deal and that he ought to know his wife is running around town like a single girl. A cousin of mine is in his outfit. Should I get word to him?—POSSIBLE PIPE-LINE.

Dear Possible: Keep the word to yourself. The poor guy will learn the glad tidings one of these days all by himself. When the egg does hit the fan you'll be glad you had nothing to do with it. This is not the sort of news you send to a man overseas, via a cousin or anyone else.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 22-year-old daughter plans to be engaged when her fiancé graduates from college in June. Something has been bothering her and she has asked me to help her decide. The girl is attractive and has the world's sunniest disposition. She has a host of friends and no one thinks she is handicapped. Nevertheless she had polio when she was a youngster and the disease left her with a slight limp and a shriveled arm.

Her fiancé wants to buy her an engagement ring. She doesn't know whether or not she wants a ring because it is her left arm that is crippled. Although she has never been self-conscious she would not like to call attention to her deformity by wearing an engagement ring. May we have your opinion?—Q.T.

Dear Q.T.: Your daughter should not hesitate to accept an engagement ring. If she would be more comfortable about wearing the ring on her right hand by all means suggest that she do so.

Predicts Revolution

Educational Centre Needed for Adults

There is a definite need in Victoria for a multi-purpose centre designed to serve the educational needs of adults, John Dalgleish, director of adult education for the Victoria School Board, said yesterday.

He stressed this point in his talk on vocational schools at the annual meeting of the Victoria Council of Women.

An extensive survey, the third since 1956, was conducted in Victoria in 1962 to find out just what was needed in the way of vocational training for adults. The survey showed that something more than a general vocational school, which is designed for specific training, was needed here. As a result an advisory committee, consisting of five school trustees, six laymen and five technical advisers, was set up to study the project.

The committee concluded that Victoria needed not a vocational school but an adult educational centre. Such a centre would help fill the big gap between those who go on to university and those needing other training for better jobs.

The committee advised the Greater Victoria School Board of the need. The board, in favor of the proposed project, prepared a brief for the department of education.

Two meetings between education department officials and the advisory committee members were held in recent months to discuss the proposed centre. A definite decision has not yet been received from the minister of education.

The speaker pointed out that if such a school is built in Victoria it will be comprehensive in scope so as to provide continuing education for adults and those not attending regular schools. "Education is a continuing process applicable to all adults," he said.

Mr. Dalgleish said there should be three types of training offered in such a school . . . Vocational training with a group of core subjects to be continued each year as well as co-related subjects offered from time to time as the need arises . . . General education offering high school courses and high school graduation course in addition to special academic courses. Third type of training should include special services with testing, guidance and job placements being featured.

Eligible for enrolment in this multi-purpose educational centre would be students who are seeking a higher level of education, but don't want to go on to university, students who left school before completing their education and find they need more training, unemployed persons who need additional training to help them find work, employed persons who need more training to gain advancement in their present jobs, apprentices under contract wishing short and intensive courses to acquaint them with new equipment and new findings in their particular field, short refresher courses for foreign-born who may be skilled but need training in Canadian ways, and finally, the unemployed who have insufficient training for any specific job.

Minimum age for students has been tentatively set at 16 years, with the maximum age restricted to only that as required by employment conditions.

The guest speaker said that the local school board feels the proposed school should be operated by the board and not the department of education.

"We're going to have a revolution in education in the next 10 years whether we like it or not," he concluded. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Henrietta Anderson and thanked by Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie, immediate past president and chairman of the meeting.

Dr. Anderson, education committee chairman, in her report given during the morning session, paid tribute to adult education seminars at the University of Victoria, the local night schools and the special courses being offered to select groups in industry and civil service.

She said that another sign of the times is the encouragement being given to exchange of students with other countries.

"Tolerance and understanding in the young will do more to the cause of peace."

She deplored the low standing being accepted for university entrance at present and felt that 50 per cent was not satisfactory enough for entering "an institution of higher education."

"We're still being reminded here by the search for quantity rather than quality in our University of Victoria at present."

Mrs. Donald Cox reported on the Indian Affairs study group which is a three-year joint study project undertaken by the Provincial Council of Women under the direction of the extension department of the University of British Columbia.

She said it is hoped that eventually, as a result of this study project, recommendations for ameliorating some of the conditions of the Indians will be formulated and submissions made.

"It is only in the past 15 years that there has been a growing interest in the problems of Indian Affairs."

Mrs. Cox reminded the members that Indian Affairs is one of the most pressing social problems facing Canadians today and that something was going to have to be done to help the Indians help themselves.

A number of provincial council resolutions were dealt with in preparation for the coming Provincial Council of Women annual meeting to be held in the Empress Hotel, Feb. 17 to 19.

Delegates appointed to attend the meeting were Mrs. May Campbell, new president; Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie, immediate past president; Mrs. R. B. Shaw, Mrs. Summers Clarke and Mrs. A. E. McMillan. Alternates are Mrs. T. E. Lowe, Mrs. C. MacLean and Mrs. A. Raymond.

Arrive in Scottsdale For Parada Del Sol

By MURIEL WILSON

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz.—Most of our Seville marmalade oranges come from Scottsdale and vicinity. These trees grow in almost every garden in town and the fruit which reaches maturity in December is picked by high school students during Christmas vacation.

The main crop of the Tal-wai (the fertile land the sun shines first upon) Ranch is its 115 acres of grapefruit. The trees are very tall, requiring 22 foot ladders for picking. When we saw them, picking was going on. What a sight those trees were—bright yellow fruit, heavy among the glossy green leaves. Grapefruit is not the only crop on this fine ranch . . . they grow navel, valencias, limes, the Thompson seedless grapes as well as a fancy exotic grape. Pickers live on the property all year long.

I can't leave Scottsdale without telling you that we arrived on the day of Parada Del Sol, parade of the sun, a yearly festival originally celebrated by the Hopi Indians. Now the whole town participates staging and recreating all sorts of early day incidents.

Phoenix and vicinity has a stark grey sort of beauty—bare dramatic mountains with multi-million-dollar homes perched in strategic crevices. (Barry Goldwater's mansion was one of the show places). There are no little cars. Cars, homes, hotels and fantastic buildings all proclaim money, money, money. I was surprised to see golf being played on toast brown courses.

The only green grass I saw was at the Hotel Valley Ho. And of course the citrus groves are lush and green due to the irrigation ditches between each row where water is continually pumped.

Water for all this great area comes from the seemingly inexhaustible Colorado River (which also supplies most of the water in California).

Meals at the Lulu Belle and at the magnificent resort called Mountain Shadows were memorable. People in these parts are wonderfully friendly and hospitable.

We left from the magnificent Phoenix Airport where a dazzling mural of the bright plumaged Phoenix bird (the fabled bird from which the city takes its name) dominates the main rotunda. We flew by jet direct to Los Angeles.

Many Showers Honor Bride

Several showers were held in honor of Mrs. H. D. Sherman, the former Sue Kirkendale, who was married Saturday.

At a party in the Greenwood Avenue home of Mrs. John Kirkendale, the guest of honor was presented with a corsage of yellow roses. Chrysanthemums in corsage were received by her mother, Mrs. D. H. Kirkendale, and the groom's mother, Mrs. H. Sherman. Gifts were in a replica of a pink and white decorated wedding cake. Buffet style supper was served from a table centred with daffodils and yellow candles. Those present included Mrs. J. Buchanan, Mrs. T. Lawson, Mrs. J. Crossan, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. A. Meeger, Mrs. M. Herrin, the Misses Jennie Holt, Gail Shepherd, Paddy Wilton, Charlotte Crossan, Marilyn White, Christine Kirkendale, Lorraine McConnell, Pam Messer, Val Kirkendale and Carol Kirkendale.

Daffodils and blue iris centred the refreshment table at a shower in the Cunningham Drive home of Mrs. R. Zeitz. A laundry basket decorated with pink and white flowers held gifts. Ribbon rosette corsages were presented to the bride, to her mother and the groom's mother. Guests included Mrs. G. Wilner, Mrs. E. Mowat, Mrs. D. Martin, Mrs. J. Phillips, Mrs. C. Jorgensen, Mrs. J. Buchanan, Mrs. J. Kirkendale, Mrs. D. Newhook, the Misses Val Kirkendale, Carol Kirkendale, Christine Kirkendale, Joy Phillips and Jennie Holt.

A white umbrella held gifts at another shower given by Mrs. D. Martin in her Hollis Road home. Valentines and white candles set the decor. The bride-to-be was presented with a gardenia corsage and pink carnations were received by her mother and the groom-elect's mother. Those attending included Mrs. Jorgensen, Mrs. R. Zeitz, Mrs. G. Wilner, Mrs. B. Hutton, Mrs. S. Creed, Mrs. J. Phillips, Mrs. M. Coppinger, Mrs. A. Cuthbert, Mrs. D. Atherley, Mrs. S. Taylor, Mrs. E. Wardell, the Misses Laura Wilner, Jennie Holt, Doreen Martin, Val and Carol Kirkendale.

Co-workers from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce presented the bride with a wall plaque at a dinner shower held at the Princess Mary Restaurant. She also received a red carnation corsage. Those present were Mrs. L. M. Smith, the Misses Joan Covey, Sharon Muir, Marge Campbell and Marilyn Muirhead.

Miss Jennie Holt was hostess at a shower in her home on Cordova Bay Road. A turquoise and white wishing well held gifts and the refreshment table was decorated in Hawaiian motif with orchids and bamboo leaves flanked by pale green candles. The bride received a corsage of pale pink rosettes and pink carnations were presented to her mother and the groom's mother. Guests included Mrs. E. Sex-

ON BOARD HMCS FRASER AT MANILA—One hundred and eight dark-eyed young ladies came aboard this destroyer-becut and had what was undoubtedly the finest banquet of their lives.

The menu was a hot dog, a big cookie, a glass of milk and a bagful of candies. The young ladies were orphans and needy children of this great sprawling metropolis of nearly 2,000,000, a city of stark standard-of-living contrasts.

MOST HAD SORES

They were little victims of absolute destitution. Nearly half of them wore no shoes. Most had sores of some sort on their bodies. There wasn't any sparkle in their eyes.

With the arrival of HMCS Fraser, Mackenzie and St. Laurent in the course of a Far East training cruise, Manila authorities readily accepted an offer by the Canadian ships to host a children's party.

MISERABLE SLUM

They didn't have far to look for a guest list.

A miserable slum was demolished here recently. Its occupants had to move and start all over again. Their poverty defies description.

Many were taken in by the Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception here. Their headquarters is in Montreal.

NEW DRESSES

The girls, from four to eight years old, wore new dresses provided by the mission. They came out to the Fraser with seven sisters and the Sister Superior in our liberty boats.

They were shown about the ship, saw a movie in the main cafeteria, then assembled on the quarterdeck to enjoy their "feast."

HALF SAVED

When the children, broke cookies in half and ate one portion, clutching the other in their hand, the Sister Superior explained: "They do that because they want to take something back for either their families or their friends."

After two hours the boats carried them away.

DOUBLE THANKS

The children waved and their expressions conveyed their thanks.

High above the water, the sailors of the Fraser lined the rails. They too waved and smiled their thanks, for the opportunity to give 120 minutes of happiness to 108 little ladies of Manila.

24 Days to Go

Heart Campaign Up to $11,000

The B.C. Heart Foundation campaign for cash on Vancouver Island yesterday soared to $11,000—and there are still 24 donation days to go.

With an Island objective of $30,000, the foundation is hoping to provide cash for research into heart and circulatory diseases.

"Although much of the Island campaign has been by mail," said secretary Mrs. Mae Barry,

"we are doing very well—better than this time last year, in fact. And there are still a lot of returns from businessmen and our special names list to come in yet."

Donations may be sent to the Heart Fund Office, Ste. 218, Central Building, 620 View Street, Victoria, or made in person at any bank branch.

Reaction Awaited

Birth Control Aid Urged

Within a few days Jack Allman, president of the Greater Victoria branch of the B.C. Association of Social Workers, expects to receive official provincial reactions to a brief advocating birth control services at public expense.

The brief, sent last year, supported birth control on a voluntary basis.

NOT FORCED

Said Mr. Allman last night: "I'm expecting to hear the reaction at provincial level any day now. Our association thinks this service should be available, but I would stress that it should never be forced upon the public."

Mr. Allman was commenting on the recent action of New York—the 11th U.S. state to adopt a birth control program.

New York accepted opposition by limiting birth control to women living with their husbands who ask for aid on medical grounds only and by not requiring Catholic welfare workers to dispense such advice, nor Catholics to receive it.

Something Needed To Solve Problem

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Roman Catholic hierarchy realizes that the birth control problem can mean moral torture for families, Archbishop W. M. Duke of Vancouver said Wednesday.

But the solution of a moral problem could not be based on expedience alone, the archbishop said.

"The principle involved in birth control is that it is immoral to frustrate artificially a natural function," he said in a statement issued from the Vancouver archdiocese office. Archbishop Duke said artificial frustration of nature should not be confused with artificial remedies used to cure disabilities.

Donna Coles Riding Champ

Donna Coles won the two main events in the Victoria Riding Academy Junior Club gymkhana held Sunday.

She was riding her own horse Chico, in the events Pair Jumping and Back Alley jumping.

Other winners and events were: Jo Weicker, Trotting Race riding Settle; Dena Gibson, Egg and Spoon race riding General; Donna Coles, Obstacle Race riding Chico.

Boat Capsizes, Man Drowned

PORT COQUITLAM (CP)—Oscar Carlson, 69, was drowned when his boat struck a dead-head and threw him into the Pitt River, RCMP disclosed Wednesday. The accident apparently happened last week when Carlson was returning home from a trip. His body was recovered.

Innocent Son CIA Agent Oswald's Mother Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Oswald said Wednesday she told the Warren commission she believes her son was a U.S. intelligence agent who was "set up to take the blame" for President Kennedy's assassination. She said she believes her son was innocent.

The 56-year-old mother of Lee Harvey Oswald finished three days of testimony to the presidential investigating commission. Then she held an impromptu press conference in which she acknowledged—despite her belief in his innocence—that:

"I realize that as a human being he could be guilty."

But she said she possesses "pertinent evidence" leading her to believe the assassin points in Oswald, who became interested in Marxism as a teen-ager, as the lone perpetrator of the assassination in Dallas Nov. 22.

Chief Justice Earl Warren told reporters after the hearing, however, that the Fort Worth practical nurse offered no evidence to support her belief that the 24-year-old former marine was a secret agent for the Central Intelligence Agency.

"She contends her story to us and the correspondence she presented, taken together, led her to the speculation—I use the word speculation, as she used it—that he was an agent," Warren said.

He said Mrs. Oswald's lengthy testimony provided no facts that would "change the picture as we knew it up to the time she testified."

The bulk of evidence in the commission's hands—including a five-volume FBI report—

Bitter Debate

High-Level Plot Charge Laid by Ruby Defence

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Ruby's defence chief charged Wednesday that a public relations firm helping the judge is part of what he called a high-level Dallas plot to deprive Ruby of a fair trial.

Ruby is charged with murdering Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Sam R. Bloom, head of the firm, testified he had volunteered to assist the judge in arranging facilities for press coverage of the trial as a public service. He said no one had asked him to do it and he had not discussed his work with anybody but the judge and the press.

Lawyers for both sides engaged in a hot, bitter debate over admission of papers brought to court by Bloom on orders of the defence. The papers, finally admitted, turned out to be letters between the firm and news media about facilities for covering the trial.

Bloom testified in the third day of a hearing on the defence's effort to have Ruby's trial moved to another city because of what chief defence lawyer Melvin Belli called "a conspiracy of the oligarchy that exists in Dallas."

Ruby, 32, is accused of fatally shooting Oswald Nov. 24—two days after Oswald was charged with murder in the assassination of Kennedy. Both killings occurred in Dallas.

These three know a thing or two about Scotch

Left to right, they are: Roland Cormack, our maltman; George Cowie, our stillman; and John Wylie, our brewer. The things they know about making Scotch couldn't be written down, they're bred in. And added to during a lifetime of experience. Roland's great-grandfather was a maltman, and so was George's. The more you know about Scotch, the more you like Ballantine's.

By KEN JOHNSON

A big red heart cut from cardboard and edged in pink lace carried the message, "Be mine . . . Dad." It was just one of this year's Valentine cards from a youngster to a parent—but there was a difference.

This year, more and more children are going to make Friday a do-it-yourself Valentine's Day, at least as far as the cards go. For the past week or so Victoria children have been hard at work with scissors, glue, colored paper and ribbon—making their own Valentine cards for their mums and dads.

One city store—Woodward's at Mayfair—even organized a special children's Valentine card competition. There were more than 300 entries which are now on display in the department store.

The winners—entries have been divided into four age groups between six and 12—will receive merchandise gift certificates.

Pinned on the display pillars at the store are cards of all shapes and sizes, painted, crayoned and decorated with silver paper—even one trimmed with popcorn.

They announce legends like, "Because your heart is as big as mine, I know you'll be my Valentine."

One little girl, in a heart-and-ponies message in her father, penned this tentative stanza:

"I like your eyes, I like your hair,
"I'd be your Valentine, if the boys wouldn't stare."

Garden Notes

Vegetables A to Z

By M. V. CHENUT, FRES

We got started yesterday on our annual ramble through the seed catalogues, picking out a few varieties which seem suitable for our climate and soil conditions. As I pointed out in my last column, my selection of varieties isn't necessarily the best kinds, for life is too short and garden space is too limited to test every new kind that comes along. But at least the varieties I shall mention have performed well in my garden, and what is more important, their flavor has been good.

We'll get started on the vegetable section, working our way alphabetically through the catalogues, and eventually I hope to cover the flowers, vines, shrubs and bulbs in the same way.

Skipping over artichokes—which we don't grow—we come to asparagus, and here I might mention that I have had several letters recently asking me to suggest some good asparagus seed. From the tone of these letters, it is evident that the writers expect to sow the seeds this April and start gorging themselves on home-grown asparagus about June.

Sorry as I am to discourage these enthusiasts, I must explain that if you sow asparagus seed this spring, you'll cut your first feed of home-grown spears in the spring of 1968, four years hence.

Or, if you cheat a bit, you might snitch a very small sampling from the asparagus patch in 1967, with normal cropping thereafter. The trick here is to buy and plant two-year-old roots, which are available from most catalogue seedsmen and plant nurseries and sell for around 60¢ per dozen. A 100-foot row containing four dozen plants is enough to supply the average family with enough left over for freezing.

The most commonly planted variety is Mary Washington, but there is an improved strain known variously as Viking, Vineland No. 35 and Improved Mary Washington V-35, depending on what catalogue you consult.

When selecting bean seeds, it is wise to remember that the best varieties for commercial growers are not necessarily a wise choice for the home gardener. The farmer, growing beans under contract for the canners, must employ his labor force of pickers in the most economical way, and his ideal is a variety in which the whole crop can be harvested all in one go. Such a feast-or-famine bean is no good for the home garden—we want pod production spread over the longest possible period of time.

We had this experience with the yellow-podded wax or butter beans. Intrigued by the catalogue descriptions of Kinghorn Wax, we found the crop all turned in at once and we had to eat beans until they were coming out of our ears. Moreover, in developing a white-seeded variety which would have a more attractive appearance when canned, we feel that the plant breeders have sacrificed some of the fine, rich, buttery flavor of the older varieties. We have gone back to our old favorite, Pencil Pod Black Wax.

For a green-podded bean, we like Gardengreen, listed in some catalogues as Tendergreen Improved. The plants stand about 18 inches high and seem to possess a high degree of resistance to disease. The five-inch pods are a very dark green, held well clear of the ground, and the flavor is excellent.

We have given up growing pole beans, even though their flavor is richer and "beanier" than the dwarf, because they take up too much room and cast too much shade. The vines grow from seven to 15 feet tall, and finding supports for such enormous things is just too much of a chore. If you have a 10-foot fence in your garden, though, which you wish to cover with beans instead of Clematis, try Blue Lake. It hasn't quite the flavor of the English bean Blue Coco, tops in my book, but against this, it doesn't come down with virus, mosaic, rust and other assorted afflictions that beset Blue Coco in a bad year.

Defectors Good Thing, Says JOHN CROSBY

Cross-Breeding Needed

Dear me, Amanda, what a day! Where on earth has everyone gone?

The Russians have announced in Geneva that one of their arms experts is missing. Defected to the West, maybe. The English have lost one of their most brilliant physiologists, Dr. Ian Bush, who defected with his whole research staff to the United States, where there's more research money.

The Dutch have lost a princess who defected to love, fra la, and the House of Commons has lost Harold Macmillan, who defected to private life.

Everyone gets so restless in February. Everybody's defecting every which way.

I hate that word "defected." Amanda, I feel about people the same way the physicists feel about matter. Nothing is really lost. It just changes its shape and its molecular composition and the universe is richer.

The British press is raising a howl about losing Dr. Bush after spending all that money educating him. But he isn't lost, really. If he finds out anything about the chemical aspects of mental illness in the U.S., Americans will certainly share the good news with the English.

Besides all that indignation spilling out in the press will spur the English to raising the amount of money for research in their own universities and who knows what they'll find out. Another penicillin, maybe. Nothing is ever lost, Amanda.

This week the British Kennel Club warned dog breeders that 100 breeds of dogs are so inbred they're getting sick. They're all developing what the Kennel Club calls "excessively abnormal temperament."

Well, aren't we all, Amanda? We all need a little cross-breeding, don't we? I think it's very quaint as well as eugenic for the Dutch royal family to cross-breed with the Spanish. They've been mad at each other long enough—the Spanish and the Dutch.

That Irene has done more for Dutch public relations than anyone since that kid stuck his finger in the dike.

Even that missing Russian arms expert—wherever he is—is broadening his mind and maybe losing a little bit of his abnormal temperament. It's very good for the world, all these people moving around, and, with any luck, cross-breeding.

The only person who seems unaffected by defection is old Harold Macmillan, who always remains excessively, abnormally Harold Macmillan. Leaving the House of Commons he likened to leaving school.

"You remember what it was like being in school?" he said to the Express. "The untruthful boys always got found out in the end. And the fellows who always kept their secrets to themselves."

Dear old Harold, I'm glad he said that about boys who don't share their secrets. Boys should share their secrets. And nations should share their physiologists, their arms experts, and their princesses. And their Beatles. It's more neighborly.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Tony Dislikes Luxury

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Tony Perkins is selling his elegant town house in New York. It cost him $250,000, without the furniture. But he prefers, he says, a $50-a-month walk-up. "I feel more comfortable," he explains. I remember having lunch with Tony at the Colony restaurant in New York. He was most uncomfortable. I could see he was longing to go to some steak joint with sawdust on the floor.

British actress Diane Cilento, who plays the role of a busy wanton in Tom Jones, explains the success of the movie with this comment: "When a director trusts you that much, then you knock yourself out to justify his faith in you." She said director Tony Richardson chose experienced actors and trusted them enough to let them do scenes the way they felt. Well, his faith was certainly justified by the result.

Someone was asking Laurence Harvey to play James Bond in Kevin McGarry's production in Jamaica. But Larry said no. He didn't fancy competing with Sean Connery... incidentally, Gregory Kalford's widow owns the movie rights to Casino Royale, the very first James Bond story written by Ian Fleming. It was bought by Ratoff shortly before his death.

My nomination for the best performance of the New York season, Sir Alce Guinness in Dylan.

Shelley Winters flew to Hollywood where her mother—they are very close—is ill. Coming up for Shelley, the Pelly Adler story, A House Is Not A Home.

Ingmar Bergman is standing firm—so far—about not cutting the objected-to scenes in The Silence for the British censors. All or nothing says the Swedish director. But they usually compromise.

The manager for the Beatles asked $25,000 just to endorse a line of teen-age shirts in the U.S. This is why they are getting so rich.

The Richard Widmark's have settled into their New York apartment for a couple of months to be near their daughter, a Sarah Lawrence student. "But we won't sell the house in California," said Richard. "It's a good place to go back to." Robert Mitchum has often wished that he had not been as hasty in selling his home in the same street as Widmark's. Apart from needing a place to live when he works in Hollywood, all property here has zoomed skyhigh in the past few years.

Don't Grow Down

Advices
 Dr. STUART ROSENBERG

Three there are who would do well to underplay their overdone, frenetic zeal.

The first of the trio may be conveniently dubbed as Mr. Over-Aggressive. We find him everywhere we go. He's forever fussing, fussing and fussing. His shirts are never laundered right; his coffee's never hot enough. He vows vengeance on the whole dry-cleaning industry and upon all of the world's poor and unsuspecting waiters.

He makes the mistake of assuming that he had been made the special, supreme target of all the world's indignation. For, we are consumed with a passion after all, the earth is his and he wins all the time, we must, we must, we must, slowly go down the road to self-destruction.

He makes the mistake of assuming that he had been made the special, supreme target of all the world's indignation. For, we are consumed with a passion after all, the earth is his and he wins all the time, we must, we must, we must, slowly go down the road to self-destruction. Jealousy and hate are the twin products of the resentment of life is filled with victories which are really defeats, and losses which may become gains.

He has others harbored by the over-time in life when we need no longer behave like children in order to prove how youthful we are.

If we refuse to co-operate with life's inexorable logic and unconsciously insist upon competing all the time, we have lost the race long before it begins.

The third victim of immaturity is the man who never grows up—he thinks that the only way to remain active is to be over-active. And so he is constantly running, proving himself, and impressing others with his strength and prowess.

But to grow old is not a sin; it is an art. There comes a down, not up!

One of the signs of immature youth is its consistent insistence upon action for action's sake. Maturity knows what not to do; it has already outgrown the stage of frantic doing and is quite prepared to let the more foolish burn out their physical machines in exciting but empty whirligigging.

Wise men remain active; they avoid being overactive, and thus To those who would grow: Stop being over-aggressive, over-competitive, over-active. Overdoing makes you grow

Primary Purpose

Bill to Earmark Home Grant For Education

The B.C. homeowner grant is expected to become a less flexible highlight of Social Credit budget speeches as a result of a bill introduced by the government yesterday.

The bill is an amendment to the provincial Home-Owner Grant Act under which qualified applicants will get up to $65 each this year with which to offset local taxes.

The amendment nails the grant squarely to school costs as a primary purpose.

DIRECT PAYMENT

Homeowner grant payments are made directly to municipalities on behalf of each applicant and previously the use of the money was not earmarked.

Under the amendment, the grant is to be used for education costs first and then applied to other local tax levies if there is any left over.

In the past the government has been criticized by opposition members for designating the benefit of the homeowner grant first for one sector of local needs and then another.

DIFFERENT USES

A year ago the opposition charged that the budget speech described the grant as aid to municipalities, aid to homeowners, aid to education, etc.

A government spokesman said the amendment will have no practical effect on how the grant works, but will clarify its purpose. If municipalities start sending out separate tax notices for school costs and general taxation.

Youngsters Learn Firearms Safety

Perfect marks of 100 per cent were scored by 23 youngsters as the junior firearms safety course of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association ended last night in the YMCA.

Another 39 youngsters passed the course, the final tests last night being vision checks made by members of the B.C. Optometric Association.

HUNTER SOME DAY

Typical of the group scoring 100 per cent is S. J. Willie Junior, High student Cathy Bond, 13, of 900 Talmie, who used her brother Ken's pellet gun and hopes to be a hunter someday.

Official passing-out day will be at 8 p.m. Monday in the association's Goldstream clubhouse. The 39 graduates bring the total of safety-conscious youngsters to pass in the past three years to 272.

Other graduates will be Brian Henderson, Ron Caught,

Refurbishing picnic tables for provincial parks is regular winter work for department workers. Here Rolly Stephenson, of Alberni, repairs crack in table top by drawing it together with a lag screw after filling with putty. Hole is filled with glue then wooden plug inserted.—(Agnes Flett)

Prepare Now For Picnics

QUALICUM BEACH—Little Qualicum Falls Park has a winter works program of its own.

During the winter months picnic tables, benches and direction signs, from all provincial parks on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, are taken into the Little Qualicum Park maintenance workshop, the only such workshop on Vancouver Island.

Here they undergo a process of planing, sanding, patching, routing, plugging and surfacing for setting out in the parks again in the early spring.

Another activity is the replacing of stub posts at the camping sites.

J. M. Hall, supervisor of the central zone, which stretches from Ladysmith north to Royston, across to Long Beach on the west coast, has a crew of four working under him. They are Chris Neilsen, Herbert Koglin, Rolly Stephenson, and Fred Brittain.

The Vancouver Island and Gulf Islands region, which is the largest region in B.C., containing as it does, 25 per cent of all parks developed in the province, is under the supervision of Charles M. Danks.

Young Wardens At Pulp Mill

On Saturday, 27 boys from District 113 of the Junior Forest Wardens will make a tour of the Crofton pulp mill.

Leaving Victoria early in the morning, they will travel up Island in cars volunteered by several parents.

This field trip is one of several planned during the year for the Group to attend to give the boys a practical knowledge of various aspects of forestry and the lumber industry.

Bridge Results

Winners of the weekly bridge tournament conducted by the Victoria Amateur Contract Bridge League were: Margaret Purvis, Margie Macdonald, Edith and Mrs. Albert Jorgensen, George Morgan and Leslie Stewart, Paul Reed and Paul Smith, Margaret Powell and William Brown, Mrs. M. and Mrs. Harry Brown.

Many Inquiries

They Still Want to Join Despite Navy Cutback

Despite navy cutbacks, interest in joining the navy has not ebated on Vancouver Island, CPO Edwin Moodie, Victoria recruiting officer, said last night.

"We're just as busy with young men asking for information as we ever were," he said.

From Vancouver, B.C., area recruiting officer Lt.-Cmdr. W. P. McGown told the Colonist his office was "getting just as many inquiries and just as many are interested in joining the navy."

BURNING SISTER

"Today I had one of the biggest recruiting days since I opened the office... 17 signed and one burning sister," he said.

When asked about a report from Ottawa that "the bottom has nearly fallen out of navy recruiting" because the navy "was able to sign only 51 recruits in December," the commander said:

"The reason the navy enlisted only 51 in December is because that is all we needed. We have just about reached the cutback figure when the cut came, so rather than recruit to build overall strength we now just have to recruit to maintain numbers."

The navy cut its manpower ceiling to 20,700 from 21,720.

"The reason the navy enlisted only 51 in December is because that is all we needed. We have just about reached the cutback figure when the

Hair Today

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—It may take a century or more, but both men and women eventually will go through life bald, Dr. James W. Burke, professor of clinical medicine at Tulane University, said Wednesday.

"Hair on the head is no longer useful but purely ornamental. It may take 100 years or so, but it's destined to go."

Was Hamlet Mad Or Artful?

Whether Hamlet was mad or whether he was feigning madness will be the topic of an address to the Victoria branch of the Shakespeare Society at its next meeting Feb. 26.

Speaker will be Ted Lee, an authority on Shakespeare.

At last night's meeting the society heard Carl Hare of the University of Victoria discussing the forthcoming festival and scenes from As You Like It were read. In future, readings will be held early in the meeting for the benefit of students.

West Coast navy spokesmen contradicted an Ottawa report which said the bottom has nearly fallen out of navy recruiting.

The report said defence department officials attributed the big drop in enlistment to several factors, prominent among them cancellation of the super-frigate program, mothballing of 14 older warships and the attack on the navy last summer by retired Commodore James Plomer.

Local Leaders Try Again On Centennial Planning

The Greater Victoria inter-municipal committee has made another attempt to come to grips with the problems of local planning for the 1967 national centenary.

It recommended each of the four municipalities appoint two members to a joint committee and suggested only one of these should be a member of council.

TERMS LATER

No attempt was made at Tuesday's meeting to set terms of reference for the joint committee. This will be done, the committee decided, when names of appointees are received from the councils.

This is the second time the committee has asked its member councils to appoint representatives to a joint centennial committee. It happened last fall.

Mayor Wilson suggested each council appoint one of its members and a private citizen to the new body.

Then, he said, the eight members themselves could "find the best man in the community to head the centennial committee. The whole thing could grow from there to meet needs as they develop."

The intermunicipal committee also recommended Greater Victoria councils share a $1,000 grant to the Red Chevron Association which is celebrating its 50th anniversary year.

W. B. Montleith, representing the association, said its membership consists of members of the original Canadian Expeditionary Force and other members of the Imperial forces who were in theatre of operation by Dec. 31, 1914.

He said the association will play host to members from all parts of Vancouver Island in October. Plans include a march to the cenotaph, a reception and banquet.

IN SOME WAY

The matter of "dog violation tickets" was raised by Esquimalt representatives, who wanted to know whether other municipalities would adopt the scheme proposed by the SPCA.

The tickets would be issued to the householder after a dog, which had in some way broken regulations but could not be caught, was traced to its home. Oak Bay has already agreed to give the proposal a try.

"The SPCA has asked for this," said Reeve Wurtele. "I'd be in favor of letting them have a try."

ISSUE FOR YOUNG

Mayor Wilson said that as far as the city is concerned there appeared to be "no objections."

And if we don't need as many we can be more selective," he said. "In this way we can recruit men with better educations, men who are better all-round applicants."

"The navy has a waiting list of qualified men and when they are needed they are notified. I don't foresee any difficulty in recruiting the right sort of young man."

Thieves Due To Go Nuts

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new theft-prevention device may drive automobile thieves crazy.

When the unit is installed, any tampering with the ignition wires locks the brakes. If the brakes are released, the fuel supply is cut off. If the fuel supply is adjusted the brakes will lock again and the ignition system becomes grounded.

Gas Price, Hospital Premiums Up

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government in its third straight billion-dollar budget Wednesday tapped the motor vehicle driver for an additional two cents a gallon on gasoline and boosted hospital insurance premiums by about half.

The new gas tax effective immediately will raise about $29,000,000 a year. Hospital care insurances will pay an additional $14,000,000, partly offset by an enlargement of the coverage for out-patients including radiotherapy for cancer.

No other significant levies appeared in provincial treasurer James N. Allan's budget delivered in the legislature. A couple of minor reductions would ease taxation on some corporations by perhaps $2,000,000 and extend an exemption on low-price amusement admissions to the extent of a nominal $400,000.

The province will pick up some $14,000,000 a year through taking over a part of succession duty given up by the federal government, but the taxpayer will break even. The 3 per cent retail sales tax was held at its original level, extended to cover buses bought although its exemptions were for use within municipalities.

U.S. Spurns Cuban Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba turned on the water Tuesday in pipes leading to Guantanamo, but the U.S. Navy said the base kept its valves closed and accepted no delivery.

Two water ships now are en route to Guantanamo from Norfolk, Va. A third is on its way to Port Everglades, Fla., to pick up water for Guantanamo.

Cuba Clash Opens Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Prime Minister Douglas-Home opened a two-day exploration of world issues Wednesday and quickly ended up in opposing camps on curtailing trade with Cuba.

Joyriding Police Curbed

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Two city motorcycle policemen have "joyrided" their way to downtown and suspension.

The policemen were called on the carpet after taking their machines for an off-duty spin around town. They might have got away with it if one of them hadn't been involved in an accident.

As a result, one was demoted from a first class constable and the other was suspended for 23 days.

Ethiopia Blames Somalia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie charged Somalia Wednesday with attacking Ethiopian territory, attacking two frontier villages in the last three days.

In a letter to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant, he said the attacks were repulsive "but not without casualties on both sides."

Somalia Blames Ethiopia

MOGADISHU, Somalia (UPI) — Somalia charged Ethiopia Wednesday with continuing border aggression, causing "grave loss of property and human lives," in defiance of a UN appeal for a cease-fire.

In a cable to UN Secretary-General U Thant, the Somali government said Ethiopian fighter planes strafed and bombed Somali border villages Monday and Tuesday.

Diplomatic informants, reporting this, said Douglas-Home made it clear Britain has no intention of joining the United States in holding down commerce in non-strategic goods with Cuba.

Johnson, the informants said, forcefully restated the U.S. position that the Western Allies must find a formula harmonizing their attitudes toward the Communist world.

The differing stands on Cuba were no surprise and the two heads of government quickly agreed on the need to continue and speed up efforts to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on the central issue of Germany and Berlin, the informants said.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Officially Johnson and Douglas-Home were reported to have dug into the problems of Cyprus, Southeast Asia, Cuba and East-West relations.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, singled out those subjects as among the ones dealt with by the two heads of government, but disclosed no details.

TALKED ALONE

Johnson and the prime minister talked alone about 45 minutes in the president's office and moved to the larger cabinet room for an additional 15 minutes with advisers. Then they went to the Lincoln Memorial where each placed a wreath before the statue of Abraham Lincoln, honoring his 155th birthday.

Douglas-Home flew into snowy Washington Wednesday from Toronto. His wife accompanied him.

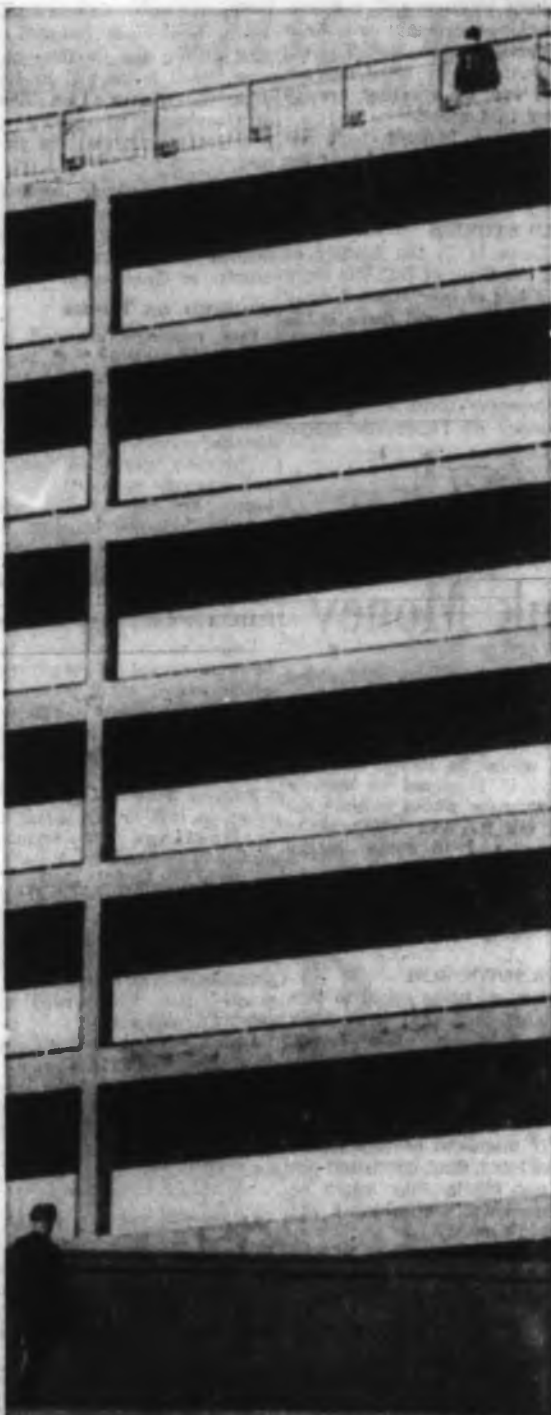

RECALLS MEETINGS

Johnson, greeting them at the north portico of the White House, recalled the tradition of meetings between American presidents and British prime ministers that began with Sir Winston Churchill.

"During these years we have had our differences," Johnson said, "but these have passed away... much as two brothers... whose ties are too strong ever to break."

He pledged a new search for peace.

Douglas-Home, noting the improving weather, said "we brought the sun with us and that may be a good omen."

Every Angle Covered

Stringent precautions to guard Prime Minister Home were taken by RCMP on arrival at Toronto. One officer is seen on empty public airport platform (bottom left), another overlooks ramps from roof and third watches on second stage from top.

$1,000,000 a Month Made in 'Market'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Showman Billy Rose, who has made almost $9,000 an hour in the past four months, said Wednesday he expected "marriage proposals from a lot of strange females around the country" when the word got out.

Rose said he had made $1,000,000 in the stock market since Oct. 15, 1963.

Rose discussed his finances after he was asked whether it was true, as his press agent reported, that he had made $10,000 an hour each hour the New York Stock Exchange had operated since that date.

"An auditor in one of the stock exchange houses came up with those figures," he said. "My stocks in recent months have gone up $4,000,000."

His principal holdings are shares in American Telephone and Telegraph and two railroads.

Railroad

45-Stick Blast Averted

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Four boys walking along a Florida East Coast main line railroad track Wednesday night discovered 45 sticks of dynamite hooked to the track and dismantled the wires just minutes before a freight train passed over.

Criminal agent Liek Larson of the Broward County sheriff's office reported the dynamite was electrically wired to the track and would have exploded if the engine had touched the wire.

QUICK ACTION
"If the boys had not taken their quick action, somebody might have been killed," he reported.

The train continued on its northward journey, unaware of its close call.

MAIN TRACK

Larson said the dynamite was placed on the main railroad track about five miles north of Titusville and about 1 1/2 miles from where the FEC tracks join with a spur track leading into the Merritt Island launch area of Cape Kennedy where facilities are being built to launch astronauts to the moon.

FREIGHT TRAINS

Cape Kennedy and Merritt Island were picketed earlier this week by railroad pickets protesting movement of the line's freight trains into Merritt Island with construction materials.

Cambodia Approves Neutrality

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has approved a formula proposed by the west for the neutralization of his south-east Asian kingdom, official sources said Wednesday.

Britain, the United States and France were said to have drafted the formula. It calls for Cambodia to declare itself neutral and for other nations to pledge to respect that neutrality.

Canada Displeased

Haiti Expels Jesuits

OTTAWA (CP) — All 18 members of the Canadian Jesuit mission in Haiti have been expelled from the island republic and are en route to Canada, External Affairs Minister announced Wednesday night.

Mr. Martin, who termed the expulsion of the Canadian missionaries "arbitrary," said he instructed the Canadian charge d'affaires in Port au Prince, Charles Bedard, to inform the Haitian government that Canada rejects vague allegations of improper activities against the Jesuit mission.

WORKING FOR HAITIANS

He said Mr. Bedard also was asked to advise the Haitian government that "we are displeased with the decision of the government of Haiti to expel a mission which has been working in the interests of the Haitian people for some years."

IDENTIFIED

They were identified only as Poulin, Hamel, Turcotte, Jean, Desgagnés and Dupuis. It was not known whether all were priests or whether some were religious brothers.

A second group of 12 was scheduled to reach New York later. This group included missionaries identified as Grenier, Bourassa, Hardy, Gerard Goulet, Louis-Joseph Goulet, Charlez, Lachance, Sabourin, Roy, Clothier, Laramee and Ross.

TWO ARRESTED

The latter two were Rev. Paul Laramee and Brother Francois-Xavier Ross who were arrested Jan. 31 on arrival in Haiti after a visit to the religious order's Montreal headquarters.

The expulsion was the second mass exodus of missionaries on orders of the Haitian government in recent years. About two years ago a number of French priests and a bishop French priests and a bishop were ordered to leave the country.

Freed Man Still In B.C.

By TERRY HAMMOND

Government officials refused yesterday to disclose the whereabouts of Charles Heathman, who was released from Escondido Tuesday.

Attorney-General Bonner said he believed the man, twice condemned and later acquitted of murder, was still in B.C.

Officials said they feared undue publicity would ruin the probation program worked out for him.

Heathman has been given a tenced to hang for the murder of Vernon newsboy Donald Otley, 10, but was later freed by the B.C. appeal court. Later he confessed to a Vancouver newspaper, and still later he repudiated the confession.

Heathman has been given a conditional release into the custody of a sponsor. Name of the sponsor is not known.

Officials said local police in the area where Heathman is living have been notified.

Mr. Bonner said he has no jurisdiction over the case. It was in the hands of mental health authorities.

Health Minister Martin, who administers mental hospitals, claimed he didn't know Heathman had been released.

"Is he out?" Mr. Martin asked a reporter who pressed him for details. "Nice of you to inform me."

Mr. Bonner said RCMP have advised him a recent claim by Heathman that he knows the identity of the real killer was unfounded.

Mighty Mice

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Field mice were blamed Wednesday for delaying 14 passenger trains, including four fast expresses, on Japan's busy Tokaido Railway Line. Officials found that mice had gnawed a signal cable. The damaged cable, soaked with rain, caused a short circuit.

Death of a Saleman

Split-Level Sex Scandal Simmers

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — At the outset a week ago, it looked like little more than a sordid ring of suburban housewives banded together in a loss $300,000-a-year sex-for-sale arrangement.

Today, however, the death of a salesman for the ring has threatened to tear the lid off a full-fledged prostitution scandal in Long Island's split-level society. There were hints that the U.S. national crime syndicate — the so-called Cosa Nostra — might be involved.

The salesman was Edmund Teddy Nugent, 48, a bartender with underworld links in his past. Authorities said as many as 300 Long Island businessmen and politicians were beguiled by discreet over-the-bar hints from Nugent and others of forbidden pleasures available at $25 to $150 a date.

Nugent was found dead Tuesday in a flaming car parked outside the lounge he managed in a Jericho motel.

"It was definitely not suicide," said Nassau County district attorney, William Cahn. "We do not know whether it was accidental or homicide, but we do know he was alive and breathing when the fire broke out."

There were no signs of physical violence, but it looks suspicious.

Cahn said Nugent admitted he steered male clients to the ring of call girls, some of whose husbands baby-sat at home while they moonlighted in sinful rendezvous with the other men, known to the call-girl trade as "johns."

Describing Nugent as a willing source of information, Cahn added:

"He was definitely an integral part of the investigation—a very important figure. He supplied some of the names of 200 businessmen known to have been customers of the women who acted as call girls."

Existence of the ring came to light last week when 14 women were picked up, including Mrs. Concetta McAllister, 35, a thrice-divorced Long Island mother of three. Most were held as material witnesses, but she was charged with inducing women into prostitution as madam of the ring.

The usual practice in such an investigation is to guarantee

City Docks Still Busy

Lumber Still Leads

Looks Like Another Big Year

By DON GAIN
Victoria's "greatest year for shipping," 1963, will be repeated in 1964 if present volume is an indication, harbormaster Captain Ronald Newell said yesterday.

"In 1963 there were 413 deep-sea ships at Victoria," he said. "In January this year there were 34, the same number as last year. So far in February we're just about the same." More than 75 per cent of the ships came to pick up lumber. "But as long as the Chinese and Russians have dollars and poor crops and keep buying our wheat we'll be busy at the grain elevator, too." Asked about possible enlargement of grain-handling facilities at Victoria, he said "it would cost a lot of money." "If you could foretell the next 20 years, it would be easy."

The present grain elevator holds 1,000,000 bushels, he said, and is owned by the Alberta Wheat Pool but is situated on land leased from the Crown.

Lot of Thought

"The people concerned with these things are giving the situation a lot of thought but when you're thinking of building new docks and hiring extra longshore gangs you can't go off half-cocked. You must consider getting the money back and keeping the extra men employed."

The captain did not know of any plans for expansion in the near future. Ogden Point docks are owned by the government and leased by the CNR.

He said disposition of ships at Ogden Point had been running quite smoothly. "One time we had three ships at anchor but this was just due to the circumstances at the moment."

Time Money

"Ship movements are controlled very carefully because to their owners or charterers time is money."

"At one time we had eight berths in Victoria, five at Ogden Point and three at Rutherford's, now Victoria Machinery Depot."

Capt. Newell recalled the days of the Blue Funnel and Empress ships.

Last in 1953

"The President Line used to call at the Outer Wharf, too. And the Aorangi on the Australia-New Zealand run."

He checked his logbook and noted Aorangi paid her last call May 14, 1953. "She was scrapped sometime later."

Capt. Newell has been harbormaster and port warden for 18 years. A veteran seaman, he skippered the Tecumseh Park, Bowness Park and Cromwell Park for the Canadian government during the Second World War.

As harbormaster he is responsible for the traffic in and out of the port of Victoria. All incoming ships must report to him.

Many Tasks

He must see all port dues are paid and all government rules and regulations adhered to.

As port warden he inspects ships loading grain or concentrates to see they are clean and have bulkheads properly constructed to prevent shifting of cargo. He checks deckloads to see they are properly secured and all ships to ensure they are seaworthy and ready to load.

Swinging ashore from Shinwa Line freighter Toho Maru at Ogden Point is mahogany which came from Borneo and Philippines in log form and from Japan in lumber form. Consignee Peter Brotherton said his company would use 650-ton cargo for cabinets, mouldings and wood finishes in houses. General cargo freighter sails for Vancouver today. —(William A. Boucher)

Despite Strike

Delegation Renews Drive For B.C. Shipyard Work

March 6

Students To Elect Rector

University of Victoria students will elect a rector in the general elections March 6.

A "rector" is an unofficial patron who holds office for one year.

FROM EDINBURGH
The idea was put forth by Martlet editor Peter Bower at a students' council meeting. He got the idea from Edinburgh University which has had as rector the Queen Mother and Harold Macmillan.

CHOICE OF RECTOR
The students will vote for Senator deHartland Molson, former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, or former Governor-General Vincent Massey, the names decided upon by the students' council.

The council will write to the first choice asking him to accept the honorary position. If he refuses, the second choice will be approached, and so on.

STUDENT FUNCTION
It is hoped that the rector will be able to appear at a special student function.

Students' council president Larry Devlin said he endorsed the idea wholeheartedly.

A delegation to Ottawa to seek a fair share of federal defence contracts for B.C. shipyards, called off last week because of the shipyard strike, is apparently on again.

Victoria Mayor R. B. Wilson has called a meeting for this morning in preparation for the journey, a business community source said last night, and the delegation is to leave Sunday.

He said the continuing strike does not provide a favorable climate for the delegation's submission to the federal government. But, he said, the strike does not alter the basic principles of the West Coast's case.

BUSINESS AND LABOR
Both business and labor circles are expected to be represented at today's meeting.

Highland Games Set Feb. 29

Final arrangements were completed this week by Victoria Highland Games Association for the annual indoor winter gathering, to be held Feb. 29 at the Club Sirocco.

More than 30 entries have already been received for the piping, dancing and various other events, both from the interior and the U.S.A.

A big feature of this, the 11th event of its kind, will be the country dancing.

and in the delegation to Ottawa. There also is expected to be one or more representatives from the lower mainland.

The delegation to Ottawa was originally proposed by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to bring a greater proportion of national defense contracts to Western Canada.

BRIEF PREPARED
But the scheduled visit was called off when a strike began at B.C.'s three major shipyards. Preparation of a brief continued, however.

Fourteen hundred workers have been on strike at Yarrow's and Victoria Machinery Depot in Victoria since Feb. 5 and 650 employees of Burrard Dry Dock joined the strike Feb. 6.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

The latest attempt to end the strike failed Monday, when it was confirmed that both the 22 unions involved and management had turned down a proposal by B.C. deputy labor minister William Sands to end the strike.

Mr. Sands's proposal called for a three-year contract with annual wage increases of 10 cents each, plus two cents more in improved fringe benefits.

TO TAKE CUT

Boilermakers, however, were to take a five-cent-an-hour wage cut in the first year to bring their pay into line with that of other categories.

Meanwhile, James McConachy, Victoria business agent for the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers (IBC) last night described reports of dissension among the rank-and-file of his union as "utter garbage."

Store Thieves Take $1,700

PARKSVILLE — Merchandise valued at more than $1,700 and a small amount of cash was stolen from Parksville Hardware and Furniture Ltd. early Wednesday, just after RCMP had made a routine check of the premises.

Items stolen included transistor radios, two tape recorders, electric clock, pens and watches. RCMP checked premises at 1:50 a.m.

At 2:15 a.m. a passerby noticed two people coming out of the store through the broken glass from one of the front doors and notified the police.

Store is owned and managed by Glen Naylor who reports this is the third time his store has been robbed since 1959.

Vancouver Motorist Denies Impairment

PORT ALBERNI — Emil Schneider, Vancouver, pleaded not guilty in magistrate's court here Monday to a charge of impaired driving.

The charge was laid following an accident at 2:40 a.m. Sunday when the accused's car hit a utility pole at Rogers Street and Victoria Quay.

The hearing was adjourned. Also pleading not guilty before Magistrate W. E. MacLeod was William Webber who was charged with impaired driving.

The case will be heard on Feb. 28.

Dream Realized in 12 Years

By KLAUS MUENTHER
COWICHAN VALLEY—

They have them big in Holland, and the first time Shawinigan dairy farmer Jannes Poelman saw a Jersey cow here, "I thought it was a cross between a deer and a cow," he said smilingly.

Needless to say, his 50-head herd consists of sturdy, high-producing Holsteins.

Next month it will be 12 years since the bachelor son

His goal was to have his own farm in the golden west.

The ocean trip was in two ways significant for Mr. Poelman.

He not only faced the uncertainty of the new land but he met the girl who some years later was to become his wife.

Before he could purchase his own farm he encountered a variety of experiences.

He worked on fruit farms in the Okanagan Valley, was unemployed in Vancouver and made his first acquaintance with Vancouver Island when he was hired as a hand on the dairy farm of Thomas Lines at Genoa Bay.

At this time he decided the island would be the ideal place to raise a family and to farm.

But before he finally married and bought his present farm in 1952, he tried to earn more money.

Mr. Poelman took on jobs with a road construction crew at Gordon River, as a laborer with a Chemainus sawmill, the Bamberton Cement Works and the Cobble Hill lime plant.

He admits he was not too well suited as an industrial worker and his present farm, the lakeside dairy, one mile south of Shawinigan village became the young couple's life.

Their four young children, Audrey, 7, Jan, 5, Grace, 4, and Gerald, 2, may one day speak with pride of their parents' achievement.

In farming circles here the couple is respected for its excellent dairy farm management and the 30 milkers produce 1,100 pounds of milk daily.

Most of the 18-acre farm's meadows are flooded during the winter but it means fertility in spring and summer.

Mr. Poelman said he buys most of his hay from the Cowichan Indians but cuts it himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Poelman are active members of the Christian Reformed Church.

FARMERS INSTITUTE

This Friday the Cowichan 13 directors of the Cowichan Agricultural Society and Farmers' Institute at their monthly meeting will elect the 1964 executive from their ranks.

Recently elected as directors at the society's annual meeting were: Hamish Mutter, D. R. O'Brien, Stan Owens, Archie Stevenson, P. Groenewold, and R. M. H. Shaw.

The Hamilton farm south of Duncan will be the scene of a plowing demonstration on Saturday afternoon of the Cowichan 4-H Tractor Club and the youngsters will be given instructions in view of this year's Vancouver Island plowing match championship on April 4, in the Cowichan district. Leader of the 4-H tractor group is George Braithwaite.

4-H COUNCIL MEETING

The Cowichan-Cobble Hill 4-H advisory council will meet at Cobble Hill Wednesday, and tonight the South Malahat 4-H advisory council will assemble at the Scott and Feden Building at Victoria.

Some of the business to be discussed by the latter group will include: The entertaining of the 4-H provincial council meeting at Victoria tentatively scheduled for the end of March, a 4-H display at the new Woodward store at Victoria during the Easter holidays, a trip to the Colony Farm in the Fraser Valley, and a possible exchange visit to Washington State in July.

District agriculturalist and South Vancouver 4-H supervisor Ken Jameson recently held a workshop for 4-H junior leaders at Victoria.

Mr. Jameson said it was the first of four to be held throughout this spring, and the tentative date for the next one is February 28.

The workshop consists of advance training in subjects of general interest—leadership, farm management, soil, feeds and feeding practices.

A workshop for 4-H leaders and assistant leaders from all Vancouver Island centres in March probably will be held at Nanaimo.

Gulls Dumping Debris Into Reservoir

PORT ALBERNI—Council realizes immediate action is needed to overcome the conditions, Mayor Les Hammer told Stan Wilson, who reported at council meeting seagulls are carrying debris from the city dump to water reservoirs in the south end of the city.

Mr. Wilson, a city employee, said that, while the birds had previously stayed around the dump, they now are commuting between the two areas, carrying bones and other refuse to the reservoirs.

It is only in the last few days the problem has become serious, the mayor said.

He said it is apparent immediate steps must be taken to reach an agreement to use Alberni's dump and the Port Alberni garbage disposal area must be covered.

Councils of the twin cities have discussed the possibility of joining in a landfill garbage disposal project.

'Little Toot' of B.C. On the Job Again

FULFORD—The "Little Toot" of the B.C. Ferry Service, the Cy Peck, seems to be one of the most useful "retired" ships on the coast.

The vessel now is taking over the Vesuvius-Crofton run while the Mv. George Pearson is in drydock for an overhaul.

Next relief job for the Cy Peck will be to take over the schedule of the Pender Queen when that vessel goes in for overhaul.

Nanaimo Motelmén Choose Mehain

NANAIMO — Motelmén elected George Mehain of the Beverley Motel as president of the Nanaimo Motel Association of the Auto Courts and Resorts Association at its recent annual meeting.

Mrs. L. Ebert, Ivy Green Motel, was elected vice-president, Mrs. A. De Leeuw of Le Voyageur is secretary director, and R. Coburn of the Cascade Motel is treasurer.

NEXT MEETING

Directors will be elected at the next meeting to be held in Nanaimo Feb. 17 when plans for the 1964 publicity campaign will be made.

The meeting discussed Upper Island Publicity Bureau efforts to promote tourist trade from Ladysmith north to Campbell River.

It is hoped last year's successes will be exceeded this year.

Builders Building

NANAIMO—Two major building permits were applied for at city hall Tuesday by D. Robinson Construction Ltd. One for $225,000 is for construction of the new district Credit Union building on the former Conroy property next to the city hall. Excavation work began the same day.

The other, for $200,000, is for the first stage of the 16-story high-rise apartment block which is to be Vancouver Island's tallest building. This building is to be located at Cornox Road and Front Street. Work will begin on this project this week.

New Route Sought For Trucks

PORT ALBERNI—A survey to determine the approximate cost and the most advantageous location was recommended by the Port Alberni council's committee of the whole following a meeting with "several interested parties" on the matter of a waterfront truck route.

In a report at council meeting, it was recommended that a firm of highway consulting engineers be employed to conduct a basic survey to determine the feasibility with a rough estimate of cost of each of the proposed developments.

The recommendation was adopted with the proviso that cost of the survey should not exceed $1,000.

Various suggestions were that the roadway be constructed on the east side of the CPR railway tracks, on the west side, or that the highway should be divided in the centre by the tracks.

It was pointed out that, until the survey had been made, it would not be known whether it would be necessary to obtain land not presently owned by the city.

QUALICUM BEACH—The proposed construction of a $70,000 skating-curling rink and recreation centre here was disclosed in some 2,300 questionnaires and pamphlets mailed to residents of the district and neighboring communities.

A spokesman for the five-man investigating committee said it was hoped that $30,000 or more could be raised from the sale of $200 family memberships, and from donations of cash and/or materials.

Subject to approval of the village council and the ratepayers of Qualicum Beach, the committee proposes to finance the balance through a loan from the federal government through its municipal aid program.

It is anticipated that the combination skating-curling rink could be in operation by September of this year. When completed, the recreation centre would include, in addition to the rink, lawn bowling greens, tennis courts, two playing fields, rest rooms, children's playgrounds, picnic area and the Boy Scout hall.

NANAIMO—Central Control of Nanaimo Civil Defence will hold its next meeting at city hall today.

Branch 257, Royal Canadian Legion will hold a Valentine's dance at their Centennial Building, Lantzville, on Saturday night, February 15.

The woman of the year award winner will be announced at the opening of the Nanaimo city council's regular fortnightly meeting Monday night, February 17.

NANAIMO—Jaycees are sponsoring a no host dinner tonight at the Malaspina so that their members and members of other service clubs and groups can hear their guest speaker, world-famous Eric Butler of Melbourne, Australia.

Mr. Butler is editor of the Australian New Times and a director of the Australian League of Rights. He is on a Canada-wide speaking tour and is recognized as an authority on, and enemy of, Communism.

Mr. Butler will speak on such subjects as Is the British Commonwealth Finished As a World Power? The Real Meaning of the Peking-Moscow Ideological Split, and Why Communism is Contemptuous of Business and Professional People.

Indian Attend Workshop

DUNCAN—Thirty-five Vancouver Island Indian leaders are expected to participate in an Indian leadership workshop at the Tally Ho, Nanaimo, Feb. 25 and 26, said a spokesman of the Cowichan Indian agency.

The workshop is being sponsored by the extension department of UBC with the assistance of the Indian Affairs Branch. The list of lecturers will include: Miss Marjorie V. Smith and Bert Curtis, both of the extension department; Miss Shirley Arnold of the Indian Affairs Branch, Vancouver, and A. L. Carlier, provincial director of adult education from Victoria.

ALBERNI—Support of the union's endeavors to have emittance of airborne industrial waste controlled was asked in a letter to Alberni council from the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers, Local 582.

Ald. Roy James suggested that the Canada Research Council should be invited to make an investigation of conditions.

Prepare Now For Picnics

QUALICUM BEACH—Little Qualicum Falls Park has a winter works program of its own.

During the winter months picnic tables, benches and direction signs, from all provincial parks on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, are being reconditioned, are taken into the Little Qualicum Park maintenance workshop, the only such workshop on Vancouver Island.

Here they undergo a process of planing, sanding, patching, routing, plugging and surfacing for setting out in the parks again in the early spring.

Another activity is the replacing of stub posts at the camping sites.

Young Wardens At Pulp Mill

On Saturday, 27 boys from District 113 of the Junior Forest Wardens will make a tour of the Crofton pulp mill.

Leaving Victoria early in the morning, they will travel up Island in cars volunteered by several parents.

This field trip is one of several planned during the year for the Group to attend to give the boys a practical knowledge of various aspects of forestry and the lumber industry.

The boys have already made one trip tree-planting followed by a tour of the Forest Research Camp at Lake Cowichan, and other trips, including camp-outs are planned during the next few months.

Bridge Results

Winners of the weekly bridge tournament conducted by the Victoria (Island) American Club were: Margaret Purdy and Marge Morrison tied with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jorgensen; George Morgan and Leslie Morrison; Paul Hogg and Paul Smith; Marjorie Powell and William Brown; and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown.

A Man Who Knows His Subject

PORT ALBERNI—A man with first-hand experience of the benefits of the Kinsmen-sponsored program is in charge of publicity for the 1964 campaign here to raise funds for the B.C. Pulmonary and Rehabilitation Foundation.

Maurice Walley, crippled in his teens by polio, is in the responsible position of Port Alberni terminal manager of Canadian Pacific Merchandising Service. The help he received when the Kinsmen paid for his treatment and training when he was a boy in Vancouver has never been forgotten by Mr. Walley, who has overcome disability to take his place as a useful and self-sufficient citizen.

Referring to the vaccines which are rapidly pushing new incidents of polio out of the picture, he said, "You can say we have conquered the disease. Our job now is the clean-up and the follow-up."

With a campaign objective of $275,000, Kinsmen Clubs of B.C. will help to finance the Foundation's program of research and prevention, as well as treatment and rehabilitation, not only for polio victims but for all disabled and handicapped persons.

In 1949 when young Maurice was stricken, the Kinsmen's program was devoted entirely to polio. "I never have known how much they spent on me," he said. "They paid for my hospital treatment, bought my first wheelchair and sponsored me at the Rehabilitation Centre."

He spent a year in Vancouver General Hospital's quarantine section, and picked up the threads of his interrupted education by entering Sure-Pass School while still confined to his wheelchair. At the Rehab Centre, he followed a course of treatment which eventually gave him the greater mobility of crutches and in 1955 he took a job with the B.C. Government's Pharmacy division.

It was the Western Rehabilitation Centre's physical education instructor who recommended him for the position of night shift clerk at the Expressway Truck Lines terminal, where he got his start in the work which he has followed since.

Mr. Walley's left leg is permanently and completely paralyzed. The right leg and his abdominal muscles are also affected. He still uses a wheelchair indoors but uses crutches on the street.

He has a particular interest in the job placement and training project being sponsored by the Kinsmen. "I am surprised that the government hadn't done something along this line long ago. In fact, I think that B.C. and Canada have a pretty pathetic history in regards to handicapped people," he said. "I know of at least two people who could not have existed without help from the Kinsmen," he said.

Mr. Walley emphasized that there are men and women in this district who could be gainfully employed if they had been trained for jobs.

His own record of 18 years of employment has proven that a handicapped person can be a reliable and efficient worker. Since 1956 he has been promoted from clerk to night office supervisor, to customer service representative and to terminal supervisor or before coming here, last March.

"I don't think I've missed five days of work since I took my first job," Mr. Walley said. He was an enthusiastic member of the first wheelchair basketball team in Western Canada and played as centre for many years. Now he is trying to arrange to have the paraplegics come here from Vancouver for a game to boost the fund-raising campaign.

Mr. Walley is married and has a two-year-old daughter. With his full time exacting job, he still has time for community service. As well as being active with the Kinsmen, he teaches Sunday school.

When February is over and the final count is made of the proceeds of this district's contributions to the Kinsmen's fund, there will be no one more interested in the results.

He knows that the foundation's services mean to the handicapped and disabled.

U.S. Spurns Cuban Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuba turned on the water Tuesday in pipes leading to Guantanamo, but the U.S. Navy said the base kept its valves closed and accepted no delivery.

Two water ships now are en route to Guantanamo from Norfolk, Va. A third is on its way to Port Everglades, Fla., to pick up water for Guantanamo.

Cuba Clash Opens Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Prime Minister Douglas-Home opened a two-day exploration of world issues Wednesday and quickly ended up in opposing camps on curtailing trade with Cuba.

Diplomatic informants, reporting this, said Douglas-Home made it clear Britain has no intention of joining the United States in holding down commerce in non-strategic goods with Cuba.

FIND FORMULA
Johnson, the informants said, forcefully restated the U.S. position that the Western Allies must find a formula harmonizing their attitudes toward the Communist world.

The differing stands on Cuba were no surprise and the two heads of government quickly agreed on the need to continue and speed up efforts to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on the central issue of Germany and Berlin, the informants said.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS
Officially Johnson and Douglas-Home were reported to have dug into the problems of Cyprus, Southeast Asia, Cuba and East-West relations.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, singled out those subjects as among the ones dealt with by the two heads of government, but disclosed no details.

TALKED ALONE
Johnson and the prime minister talked alone about 45 minutes in the president's office and moved to the larger cabinet room for an additional 15 minutes with advisers. Then they went to the Lincoln Memorial where each placed a wreath before the statue of Abraham Lincoln, honoring his 155th birthday.

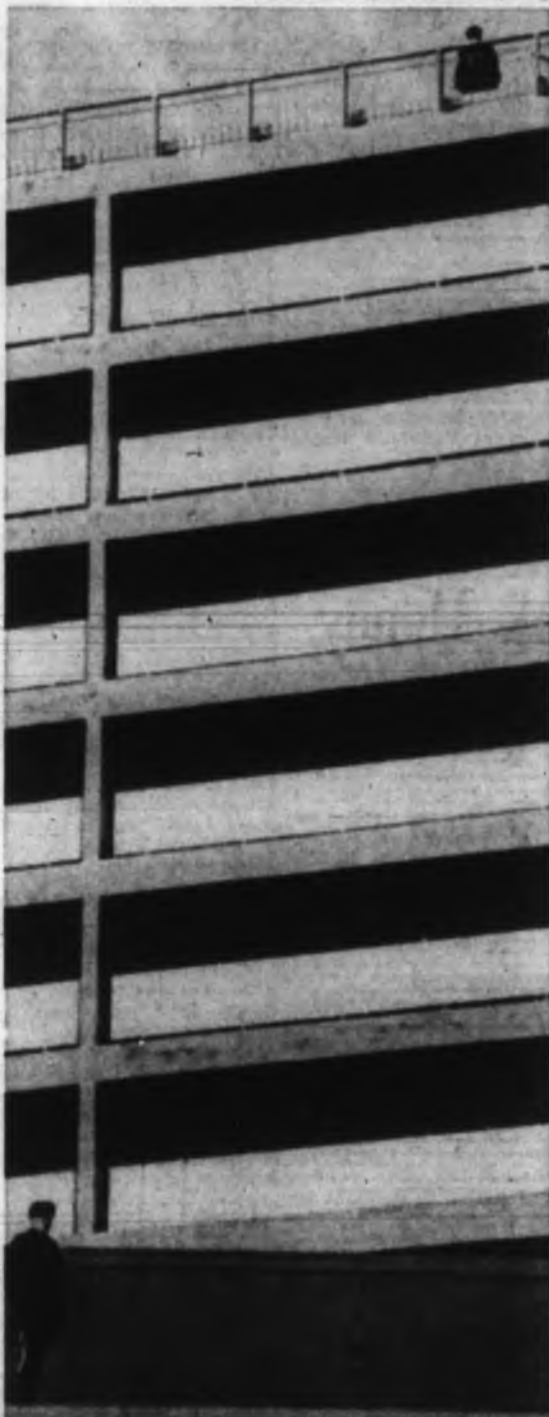

Douglas-Home flew into snowy Washington Wednesday from Toronto. His wife accompanied him.

RECALLS MEETINGS
Johnson, greeting them at the north portico of the White House, recalled the tradition of meetings between American presidents and British prime ministers that began with Sir Winston Churchill.

"During these years we have had our differences," Johnson said, "but these have passed away... much as two brothers... whose ties are too strong ever to break."

He pledged a new search for peace.

Douglas-Home, noting improving weather, said "we brought the sun with us and that may be a good omen."

That's $9,000 an Hour

$1,000,000 a Month Made in Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billionaire Billy Rose, who has made almost $9,000 an hour in the past four months, said Wednesday he expected "marriage proposals from a lot of strange females around the country" when the word got out.

Rose said he had made $4,000,000 in the stock market since Oct. 15, 1963.

Rose discussed his finances after he was asked whether it was true, as his press agent reported, that he had made $10,000 an hour each hour the New York Stock Exchange had operated since that date.

"An auditor in one of the stock exchange houses came up with those figures," he said. "My stocks in recent months have gone up $4,000,000."

Museum Site Chosen

Chant Takes Second Look

By JACK FRY

Public Works Minister Chant announced in the legislature yesterday the new provincial museum will be built east of Government Street, between Belleville and Elliott Streets.

"It is a well-known fact I did mention Beacon Hill Park as a site," but public opposition to the proposal was so great he changed his mind, Mr. Chant admitted.

"The museum will not be a part of Beacon Hill Park—this is just an ordinary 'second look,'" he said.

"The kite came down and you know it," taunted a member of the NDP Opposition group.

"The site of the provincial museum... will be in the large (civil servants) car parking lot and part of the area which now is Thunderbird Park," Mr. Chant continued.

It would usually take up to 1½ years for architects to draw up plans for a building as large as the museum, and "time is of essence" if this project is to be completed in time for Canada's centenary.

"The decision is made, and work will proceed apace," said Mr. Chant.

Victoria was once considered "quiet and static," but today the area is "becoming a metropolis and growth is apparent on all sides."

Though this growth at times "may not be spectacular... it is continuous and of considerable dimension," including such recent additions as University of Victoria development, expansion of Royal Jubilee Hospital and planned expansion of St. Joseph's Hospital, and plans for a mental health clinic and a home for retarded children in Royal Oak (near Colquitz).

"In not too great a length of time, the Greater Victoria area will double in population and greater facilities will be required," said Mr. Chant.

SEX SCANDAL SIMMERING

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — At the outset a week ago, it looked like little more than a sordid ring of suburban housewives banded together in a loose $200,000-a-year sex-for-sale arrangement.

Today, however, the death of a salesman for the ring has threatened to tear the lid off a full-fledged prostitution scandal in Long Island's split-level society. There were hints that the U.S. national crime syndicate — the so-called Cosa Nostra — might be involved.

The salesman was Edmund Teddy Nugent, 49, a bartender with underworld links in his past. Authorities said as many as 200 Long Island businessmen and politicians were beguiled by discreet over-the-bar hints from Nugent and others of forbidden pleasures available at $25 to $100 a date.

Railroad

45-Stick Blast Averted

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Four boys walking along a Florida East Coast main line railroad track Wednesday night discovered 45 sticks of dynamite hooked to the track and dismantled the wires just minutes before a freight train passed over.

Criminal agent Lief Larson of the Broward County sheriff's office reported the dynamite was electrically wired to the track and would have exploded if the engine had touched the wire.

QUICK ACTION
"If the boys had not taken their quick action, somebody might have been killed," he reported.

The train continued on its northward journey, unaware of its close call.

MAIN TRACK
Larson said the dynamite was placed on the main railroad track about five miles north of Titusville and about 1½ miles from where the FEC tracks join with a spur track leading into the Merritt Island launch area of Cape Kennedy where facilities are being built to launch astronauts to the moon.

FREIGHT TRAINS
Cape Kennedy and Merritt Island were picketed earlier this week by railroad pickets protesting movement of the line's freight trains into Merritt Island with construction materials.

Cambodia Approves Neutrality

LONDON (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia has approved a formula proposed by the west for the neutralization of his south-east Asian kingdom, official sources said Wednesday.

Britain, the United States and France were said to have drafted the formula. It calls for Cambodia to declare itself neutral and for other nations to pledge to respect that neutrality.

Britain has agreed in principle with Russia that Cambodia's neutrality should be proclaimed at an international conference in Geneva. Communist China has supported the idea of such a conference for some time.

Nugent was found dead Tuesday in a flaming car parked outside the lounge he managed in a Jericho motel.

"It was definitely not suicide," said Nassau County district attorney, William Cahn. "We do not know whether it was accidental or homicide, but we do know he was alive and breathing when the fire broke out."

There were no signs of physical violence, but it looks suspicious.

Cahn said Nugent admitted he steered male clients to the ring of call girls, some of whose husbands baby-sat at home while they moonlighted in sinful rendezvous with the other men, known to the call-girl trade as "Johns."

Describing Nugent as a willing source of information, Cahn added:

"He was definitely an integral part of the investigation—a very important figure. He supplied some of the names of 200 businessmen known to have been customers of the women who acted as call girls."

Existence of the ring came to light last week when 14 women were picked up, including Mrs. Concetta McAllister, 35, a thrice-divorced Long Island mother of three. Most were held as material witnesses, but she was charged with inducing women into prostitution as madam of the ring.

Freed Man Still In B.C.

By TERRY HAMMOND

Government officials refused yesterday to disclose the whereabouts of Charles Heathman, who was released from Escondale Tuesday.

Attorney-General Bonner said he believed the man, twice condemned and later acquitted of murder, was still in B.C.

Officials said they feared undue publicity would ruin the probation program worked out for him.

Heathman had been sentenced to hang for the murder of Vernon newsboy Donald Otley, 10, but was later freed by the B.C. appeal court. Later he confessed to a Vancouver newspaper, and still later he repudiated the confession.

Heathman has been given a conditional release into the custody of a sponsor. Name of the sponsor is not known.

Officials said local police in the area where Heathman is living have been notified.

Mr. Bonner said he has no jurisdiction over the case. It was in the hands of mental health authorities.

Health Minister Martin, who administers mental hospitals, claimed he didn't know Heathman had been released.

"Is he out?" Mr. Martin asked a reporter who pressed him for details. "Nice of you to inform me."

Mr. Bonner said RCMP have advised him a recent claim by Heathman that he knows the identity of the real killer was unfounded.
